Rioters Preview Ike's Reception

Leftists Show What May Happen

By NATE POLOWETZKY

TOKYO (AP) — More than 150,000 Japanese racketed through Tokyo's broad downtown avenues for 10 hours Saturday in a special preview staged to show what leftists can do to wreck President Eisenhower's visit here — if they want to.

Around midnight the frenzied, snake-dancing, screaming marchers finally cleared the streets. Traffic returned to normal just after midnight. It was the most massive display of left-wing strength ever mounted in the Japanese capital.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty drove by the whirling masses on his way to the airport. He took off for Anchorage, Alaska, to report to Eisenhower before the President leaves there to start his Asian tour.

Eisenhower is due in Japan June 19. The demonstrations made it clear he faces a hostile—possibly dangerous — reception from Japan's left-wing minority.

Marching sometimes 30 abreast, the columns — including workers, actors, artists, teachers, farmers, Communists, Socialists and fanatical university students—paraded riotously. Buddhist priests, hymn-singing Christians, and hundreds of women joined in. They oppose the new U. S.-Japanese security treaty on the ground it may drag Japan into another disastrous war.

Many demonstrators carried Japanese lanterns with candles flickering inside. A sea of these tiny lights illuminated banners and placards denouncing Japan's military ties with the United States, demanding the resignation of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, and urging Eisenhower not to visit Japan.

One group of about 10,000 concentrated on Kishi's house in a normally quiet residential district. Many were supporters of the Zengakuren, a radically leftist student group.

They kept Kishi a prisoner in his home for almost five hours.

Other demonstrators clubbed and pummeled 20 members of Kishi's conservative party and besieged the American Embassy shouting: "Yankee, murderer, go home," 'Ike, don't come" and "Crush the security pact."

Some sang the communist "Internationale." All were egged on by congratulations from Moscow, Peiping and the Communist press in Japan.

They marched and stormed through Tokyo, unchecked by and disdaining police, thus raising questions of what the police could do if the leftists turn out again in such strength when Eisenhower arrives.

The government is planning to rally more than half a million

Miami Airport Tangled Maze As Pilots Strike

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eastern Air Lines pilots refused to fly planes out of Miami Saturday and within a few hours paralysis began to envelop the giant EAL system.

The work stoppage started at midnight. By afternoon parked EAL planes had created a massive traffic jam at Miami's sprawling International Airport. The number of stranded planes was expected to grow.

In New York, however, EAL reported there was "an indication of a break" in the strike. A spokesman said EAL had been informed by the Air Line Pilots Assn. that it was instructing its members to "abide by the regulations and fly scheduled flights" of Eastern Air Lines.

There was no immediate comment from the pilots group.

Scheduled pilots of outgoing flights did not show up at the airport and pilots of incoming planes from New York and other points ignored orders to make return flights out of here.

Frantically, EAL revised schedules throughout the system to keep planes from coming into Miami. Ordinarily, all of EAL's 228 airliners fly here once a week for servicing at the company's biggest overhaul base. Flights from New York, Boston and Chicago to Miami were canceled.

The pilots were striking in protest against a ruling by the Federal Aviation Agency that flight inspectors must ride in seats directly behind the captains on jet flights.

Such a practice is dangerous, the pilots contend, because an inspector looking over a captain's shoulder could interfere with flight operations.

EAL called the strike illegal and Capt. Edmund P. Rordam, regional vice president of the Air Lines Pilots Assn., said the union had not authorized a strike.

Withhold Details Of Ike's Trip

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite huge mobs prowling the streets of Tokyo under hostile banners, the White House said Saturday President Eisenhower certainly intends to visit Japan on his 23,000-mile Far Eastern tour beginning Sunday.

But Eisenhower's public appearances in Tokyo may be sharply curtailed because of the danger of left-wing violence. The White House disclosed that his schedule is being reviewed. Indications are it will be revised.

The journey is the riskiest Eisenhower has undertaken as president, involving both personal and diplomatic dangers. High officials are worried over the prospects.

The chief executive plans to take off at 9 a.m. on his unprecedented jet sweep around the rim of the Pacific. His first stop is Anchorage, Alaska, 7¼ hours later. Monday he will fly on to Manila.

In the next two weeks, the President, his son and daughter-in-law Lt. Col. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, and a staff of 35 officials and aides will visit the Philippines, Formosa, Okinawa, Japan, Korea and Hawaii. They will return to Washington probably about June 27.

At Anchorage Eisenhower will meet his press secretary James C.

Lutherans Protest 'Red' Charges

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—The Augustana Lutheran Church Saturday protested charges that the National Council of Churches has communist sympathy.

A resolution adopted by delegates to the Augustana group's centennial convention termed the charges "unfounded attacks" and said they were causing deep anxiety among pastors and lay people.

The delegates reaffirmed their confidence in the council, its purposes and programs and its leadership.

Dr. Theodore E. Matson of Minneapolis, a representative of the Augustana Church on the council's board, told the delegates:

"Many unfounded and vicious attacks have been made against leaders of the National Council of Churches." These attacks have caused deep anxiety among pastors and lay people and well they might.

"We who represent our church in the council are convinced there is not a leader of the council in this country who has communistic leanings."

Post-Dispatch Says Stevenson Is Best Man

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch came out editorially Saturday in support of Adlai E. Stevenson for the Democratic nomination for president, describing him as the party's "ablest and best fitted" candidaate.

The independent newspaper said it would not state its presidential preference for the November general election until the candidates of both parties are known "and all the implications of the choice are visible."

The Sunday editorial entitled "The Democrats' Best Candidate" said of Stevenson:

"He possesses the firmest grasp of a world situation that confronts our nation with the supreme challenge of its history. He has had successful executive experience as the governor of an important state (Illinois.)He has undergone rigorous training in Democratic leadership by heading his party for eight years and in two national campaigns. . ."

The Post-Dispatch described as "a myth of expediency which has no basis in history of logic" the oft-heard argument that because Stevenson lost twice to President Eisenhower he could not win against another opponent.

The Post-Dispatch also said it welcomed Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's challenge to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and hoped "it develops into a serious contest at the Republican convention."

Step-Up Efforts To Develop Spy-In-Sky

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — New urgency is being thrown behind U.S. efforts to develop the Samos spy satellite, and defense officials said Saturday they presume the Russians are speeding work on counter-measures.

The Samos is to be a reconnaissance-type satellite, capable of photographing objects on the ground and detecting radar or other electronic systems in any part of the globe.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Friday recommended an 84-million-dollar increase in funds to rush development of the system, now scheduled for readiness in about three years.

The plan is to put a series of Samos vehicles into polar orbit to maintain constant surveillance of Communist territory. The first experimental launching is scheduled for late this year from Point Arguello, Calif., with the hope that the system can be in operation by 1963 or 1964.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) commented after Friday's committee action that President Eisenhower's cancellation of U2 reconnaissance flights over the Soviet Union leaves the Samos as 'the only foreseeable means by which we can obtain accurate and timely information about Soviet military installations."

The Air Force has said the Samos satellite is being developed "to provide information on the actions of potential enemies."

Up to now neither the Communist nor Western world nations have challenged the passage of satellites in orbit above their territories. But thus far the vehicles launched by the United States and the Soviet Union have been for research. The advent of true reconnaissance satellites will raise the issue of a country's control over the space above it.

Moscow already has made amply evident its opposition to high-altitude reconnaissance by aircraft like the U2. It has announced the intention to shoot them down, as it claimed was done in the case of the U2 last May 1. But application of that policy to unmanned satellites, orbiting from 100 to 200 miles high, would require entirely new countermeasures.

PERIL IKE AIDE — A mob of fanatic leftists screaming anti-Eisenhower oaths trapped White House press aide James Hagerty and U.S. Amb. Douglas MacArthur II, in their car at Tokyo Airport. For an hour, before a Marine helicopter could rescue the men, the car was beaten on and windows were broken by the crowds attempting to forestall President Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Japan later this month.

GOP Has Room For Dissenters: Nixon

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon Saturday invited a preconvention debate among Republicans on national issues. But he called on them to close ranks for the November campaign.

Greeted with a standing ovation at a breakfast session, Nixon told members of the Republican National Committee there is room in the GOP for those like New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who disagree with some Eisenhower administration policies.

But he said the Republicans can win in November only if they are united.

"We'll lose if we are diverted," he said.

Nixon did not mention Rockefeller by name in replying to some of the New York governor's sharp criticisms of President Eisenhower and the vice president.

Rockefeller has said he would be available for the presidential nomination, now generally expected to go to Nixon, if a draft movement should develop.

George L. Hinman, New York national committeeman, disputed speculation that the governor may announce in the next few days that he is an active candidate.

"I can absolutely guarantee Gov. Rockefeller won't do that," Hinman told a reporter.

Nixon told the national committee members the preconvention period traditionally is a time of soul-searching. He said issues are discussed for the purpose of developing a platform.

"In those discussions," he said, "it is inevitable and it is constructive that we shall have disagreement because if you're going to have a two-party system in this country, you have to have room for people to disagree."

Nixon said that honest, frank and candid discussion would result in a platform "that will join us on great principles, which will emphasize those things which unite us." He said he is confident that at the convention Republicans "will join and gather around the platform, the policies and candidates selected."

"We know that we have the fight of our lives on our hands," he said. "In this fight we can win. We will win if we're united. We'll lose if we are divided."

Nixon said he hopes Republicans can discuss the issues "and disagree on them without being disagreeable" so that party unity will prevail in the general election campaign.

In indirect reply to Rockefeller's criticisms, Nixon said he is proud of the Eisenhower administration record, adding: "I intend to run on it and to build on it."

The vice president defended Eisenhower's handling of the spy plane incident. He jibed at the suggestion of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) a leading candi-

Powers Denies Receiving Letter From Khrushchev

POUND, Va. (AP)—The father of the imprisoned U2 spy plane pilot said Saturday he had not received a letter from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev offering to help him see his son if he comes to the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Tass news agency said Khrushchev made the offer in reply to a letter from Oliver G Powers, who lives in this small mountain community in southwest Virginia.

Powers said he had received no letter from the premier but said the contents sounded like the telegram he received late last month signed by Khrushchev.

Powers' son, Francis G., was the pilot of the photographic plane which went down in the Soviet Union May 1.

Meantime, the State Department said it had been notified by the elder Powers that he plans to be in Washington Monday to talk with officials about a possible visit to Moscow to see his son.

State Department officials said Powers, a 55-year-old shoemaker, intended to apply for a passport. They said he was assured authorities in the Soviet affairs section and the passport office would be glad to confer with him.

Near Settlement In Missile Base Strike

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A break in the troubled missile industry seemed near Saturday as Convair made a new contract offer to striking machinists and predicted a quick end to the week-long walkout.

R. H. Biron, vice president of Convair Division of General Dynamics, declined to disclose details of his company's bid to the International Assn. of Machinists.

"We are close to a settlement. We are ready to meet with IAM all day (Saturday) and Sunday if necessary."

There was no immediate comment from the union.

In Burbank, north of here, a second strike loomed. A spokesman for the IAM predicted the union would decisively turn down the latest Lockheed contract offer.

The offer would mean a loss in take-home pay of 10 cents to $1.25 an hour, a union spokesman said. The uncounted ballots from Saturday's meeting of 1,000 members will be shipped to Sunnyvale, Calif., the spokesman said, for tabulation Sunday after 7,500 IAM members at the Lockheed plant there vote on the offer.

Strike authorization was voted last month by Lockheed workers, and the IAM spokesman said a walkout will probably start at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

There were earlier signs of a possible agreement at Convair when the union canceled a scheduled one-day work stoppage Monday at the firm's main plants, where 20,000 IAM members build jet fighters and transports and the Atlas ICBM missile.

A union spokesman said the order was given because "the company has apparently gotten down to serious negotiating."

The Engineers & Architects Assn., which has 6,000 workers at the plant, called a one-day strike Monday to enforce its own contract demands. First the IAM members were told not to cross the EAA lines.

EAA officials said they would go ahead with their one-day walkout even without IAM backing.

R. C. Sebold, Convair engineering vice president, said striking engineers and technicians might be replaced.

At Lockheed, where the Polaris is made, the union is asking a seven per cent pay increase for workers averaging $2.65 an hour.

British Force To Circle Globe In Emergency

LONDON (AP) — Britain's V-bomber force with its eventual nuclear striking power of Skybolt missiles is to be scattered over a globe-girdling defense system in any world emergency, qualified government sources reported Saturday night.

This long-planned development was forecast in a statement by Defense Minister Harold Watkinson Wednesday pointing to the likely dispersal of Britain's strategic airpower—and notably the Skybolt bombers expected to be operational by the mid 1960s—to bases around the world.

Watkinson, newly returned from negotiating a British - American agreement on developing air - launched Skybolt nuclear missiles, had been asked by a newsman if the Skybolt bombers would operate exclusively from British bases.

"I see no reason why all the bomber sites have to be in this country," he replied.

Amplifying the idea, defense authorities said Saturday night airfields in the Mediterranean and Middle East, East and Central Africa and the Far East are being earmarked as possible base areas.

These would include fields in Cyprus, where the British hope to retain a military enclave after that island colony becomes independing, Aden Colony, Kenya, the Central African Federation and certain Asian colonial territories like Singapore.

One effect of the move in an East-West war waged with the sort of 5,000-mile-range rockets the Soviet Union is developing would be to bring most of these base territories into the nuclear front lines.

Stevenson Available For Draft

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson was reported Saturday ready and willing to make his third bid for the White House—if next month's Democratic National Convention drafts him as the party's presidential candidate.

A definite statement to this effect is believed to be in the hands now of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of President Roosevelt. The New York Post said the statement would make Stevenson's availability "completely clear."

Mrs. Roosevelt announced two days ago her formal preference for Stevenson as the 1960 Democratic candidate over Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the front-runner for the presidential nomination.

Stevenson confirmed Saturday at his farm home in Libertyville, Ill., that he had sent a telegram to Mrs. Roosevelt, and Mrs. Roosevelt's private secretary said here that the telegram had been received.

Stevenson declined to discuss the contents of his message to the former first lady and would only say that any release of its contents would have to be made by Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt could not be reached at her home for comment, but her secretary said Mrs. Roosevelt did plan to release the Stevenson telegram, though not immediately.

Stevenson's telegram presumably was a direct comment from the two-time Democratic presidential candidate on Mrs. Roosevelt's publicly announced support of him this year.

In her statement Thursday, Mrs. Roosevelt said the collapse of the recent summit conference at Paris had convinced her that America needs the wisdom, maturity and experience of the 60-year-old Stevenson.

U.S. Hotels Seized By Government

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government Saturday took over Havana's two largest luxury hotels, the American-operated Nacional and Havana Hilton.

Labor Minister Augusto R. Martinez Sanchez ordered the seizure along with that of a Havana residential hotel, another downtown tourist hotel, and the Tropicana night club, the capital's best known cabaret.

The hotels and night club were seized under a resolution declaring that a labor and economic crisis existed in them and had not been solved by their operators.

Martinez Sanchez accused the American operators of the Nacional and the Hilton of failure "through their ample connections in the United States, to stimulate tourism to Cuba."

Both hotels have had a month-to-month struggle to meet payrolls. The government has refused to permit them to lay off some of their employes despite a steady decline in the number of guests. Employes have outnumbered guests several times.

With the collapse of Cuba's tourist trade from the United States more than a year ago, the Hilton, operated by the Hilton chain, and the Nacional, run by Pan-American Airlines' Inter-Continental Hotels Corp., have been losing between $80,000 and $100,000 a month.

Spokesmen for both operators said the government and the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union—which owns the Hilton Hotel Building — had rejected several proposals for staff reductions.

Butler Says GOP Will Revert To Slogans, Epithets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said Saturday the Republicans apparently "will revert to slogans and epithets instead of joining in a great debate" with Democrats in this year's political campaign.

Saying this was the impression he got from Friday's meeting of the Republican National Committee, Butler declared it was a "disheartening" performance.

He said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's challenge for Vice President Richard M. Nixon to say where he stands on various issues "indicates that the Republican leaders need to discuss issues and make it clear what the Republican party stands for."

"But almost to a man," Butler said, "the reaction of the Republican leaders Friday was, 'Go away, Nelson, you bother me'."

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said, in a separate statement, the Republican committee's giving Nixon equal credit with Eisenhower for the administration's program and accomplishments "is an insult to the judgment of the American people."

"To begin with," McCormack said, "everyone knows the vice president cannot be considered a full partner with any president.

"Such a resolution demotes the standing and the prestige of the President of the United States. The action taken was purely for political reasons to try to build up Vice President Nixon and give him a stature which he does not deserve.

"Furthermore," the House leader said, "if they undertake to give Nixon benefit for the successes of President Eisenhower, Nixon must also assume responsibility for the mistakes of the President."

Terms Refusal Treason

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — Three oil companies — two American and one Dutch-British — faced an ultimatum Saturday from Prime Minister Fidel Castro to refine Soviet crude oil in their Cuban plants or suffer confiscation.

The bearded Prime Minister, in a TV speech Friday night which bristled with anti-Americanism, called treason their refusal to handle the oil he is buying from the Soviet Union with Cuban sugar.

Oil company executives here had no immediate reply to Castro's biting attack, in which he accused Esso Standard, Texaco, Inc., and the Shell Oil Co. of plotting with the U.S. State Department to destroy his revolution by leaving Cuba without oil.

Their reply was expected to come directly from their parent companies in the United States and in London. At stake was a 75-million - dollar investment the three companies have in their Cuban refineries, plus an estimated total of 60 million dollars in foreign exchange the Castro government owes them for crude already imported and processed.

Neutral petroleum experts here said they believed Castro—despite his open threat of confiscation—would go slow in taking over the Western refineries.

"Best estimates are that he would need a fleet of 22 large tankers shuttling between Cuba and the Black Sea to supply the present Cuban consumption of nearly 60,000 barrels of oil daily," said one expert. "Russia can't spare that many tankers and they are not available elsewhere."

Most of the crude now processed for Cuba comes from Venezuela.

Castro told the three companies to "rectify their decisions

New System Guides Atlas 5,000 Miles

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A powerful Atlas, steered for the first time by a new inertial guidance system, hit a target 5,000 miles away Saturday.

The Air Force announced the intercontinental-range rocket successfully plunked its nose cone in the intended bull's-eye area off the South Atlantic island of Ascension.

Project officials called the test excellent. They said it hastened the day when the Atlas can be fired in salvo from protected underground shelters.

The launching was accomplished despite a machinists' strike which has hindered Convair operations here for five days. Convair, which manufacturers the Atlas, assigned supervisory personnel and engineers to jobs normally handled by machinists during the launch.

Once perfected, the inertial guidance system will increase the reaction time of the Atlas. It offers a main advantage of firing all missiles at one base simultaneously. It also is immune from jamming and is not affected by weather of atmospheric conditions.

The launching was the first since two of these rockets scored a pair of U.S. missile achievements in a four-day period last month. One streaked a record 9,000 miles from cape Canaveral to the Indian Ocean; the second boosted the Midas missile detection satellite into orbit.

Expect Happy Ending For Writers' Strike

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The 5½-month screenwriter's strike against the major movie studios is expected to fade into a happy ending Sunday.

The 90 writers involved will vote Sunday night on ratification of the studios' latest offer, accepted Friday night by the Writers Guild of America's governing council. Approval is expected.

Despite the prolonged walkout, the movie-going public hardly felt the effects of the strike.

Virtually the same may be said for the big studios, which have tremendous backlogs of scripts.

But it's a different story for producers of television films, also struck by the WGA. The TV writers' strike forced producers to scramble for scripts to satisfy TV's insatiable appetite for material. The TV strike still is unsettled.

Details of the agreement:

The writers will get a 10 per cent pay hike for the first two years of their 42-month contract. The starting salary has been $350 a week.

Producers will pay $600,000 to establish a health and welfare fund.

Producers also will pay an amount equal to five per cent of the writers' salaries—up to a maximum of $100,000 a picture—toward the writers' first health, welfare and pension plans.

NOT THROWN

Porcupines do not throw their quills in self-defense. It sometimes happens that one will flip up its tail and a loose quill will fly off, but the odds against such a quill hitting a target are very slim.

SOROPTIMISTS SPONSOR INVALID MARKERS

The Soroptimist Club is sponsoring the program in cooperation with the Jacksonville Fire Department to place identifying and guidance markers on the homes of the aged and infirm.

These markers will aid the firemen in quick rescue of disabled, aged and blind residents in case of fire.

Any family needing such a marker may have one without charge by calling the local fire department at CH 5-6101 (non-fire phone). Members of the fire department will make installation of the markers every Thursday.

Marking is accomplished by placing a four-inch luminous decal on the front of the house near the house number; a three-inch decal on the rear or side entrance, one smaller decal on the window of the room occupied by the invalid and one small decal on the door frame leading into the room at about eye-level.

Purpose of the program is to make such marked houses readily known to the firemen so that in the event of a call for fire or other emergency, the primary rescue act of the department will be to see that such persons are removed from the building.

BOY SCOUTS CAMP IN MICHIGAN

Members of Explorer Post 107 returned to Jacksonville Monday after a ten day trip to Porcupine Mountains State Park in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan. The group included ten Scouts and two adults. They left the city May 28 in two cars. Overnight camp was set up on top of Rib Mountain near Wausau, Wis., and the following day the group arrived at its destination.

After driving the cars as close as possible to the campsite chosen in the park all the equipment, food, and clothing was loaded onto packframes which the members of the group carried on their backs. The campsite was on the shore of Mirror Lake, three miles from the cars. Using the campsite as a headquarters, much of the 55,000 acre state park was explored on foot. Jack McCarty is believed to have covered the most territory, having walked 63 miles. Several of the Explorers enjoyed fishing in the numerous streams in the park.

From the time the group reached its campsite in the interior of the park until it left eight days later no one else was seen in the park. Numerous wild animals were encountered, however. A white tiled deer visited the camp site several times. Many porcupines were seen. One night a bear ripped the side out of one of the tents, in which no one was sleeping.

This was the fifth annual trip for Explorer Post 107. The group has been on camping trips to New Mexico twice and to Canada twice. The post is sponsored by Grace Methodist church.

The drivers for the trip were Bill Deem, Explorer Adviser, and Paul Harmon, Post Committee member.

JACKSONVILLE DELEGATES TO BOYS STATE

JOEY WELLS

DEAN LOW

FRED CURTIS

JACK RICKS

Three Jacksonville organizations are sponsoring four boys as citizens to Boys State scheduled at the Springfield State Fair Grounds June 19 to June 25. The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring Joey Wells, the World War I Barracks is sponsoring Dean Low, and The American Legion is sponsoring Fred Curtis and Jack Ricks. Each boy has been selected because of his outstanding qualifications in leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

The Boys State program originated in Illinois in 1934 and has been adopted by the national organization of The American Legion. Boys State is now held in 19 states. The 1960 school will be the 25th session of Premier Boys State. The program seeks to educate youth in the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities of American citizenship.

Boys State citizens will not only be required to recall knowledge already acquired concerning the political machinery of a commonwealth, but they will find themselves performing exactly the same functions as real officeholders in the everyday world. The boys will organize their own city, county, and state governments and will elect their officials in accordance with regular election procedures.

Each boy at Boys State belongs to a political party. However, the political parties of Boys State are in no way connected with the existing political parties in Illinois. The political parties of Boys State are called "Federalists" and "Nationalists." They are purely mythical.

In such an atmosphere as this the young citizen has an opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. Here each boy "learns by doing."

Agricultural Committees Will Be Elected By Mail

Mr. Trull, Chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Election Board announced that the community election boards had selected a slate of ten nominees for each of the eighteen townships in the county.

This year community elections will be held by mail from June 24 through July 5 in order to enable a greater participation by voters during this period of farming operations. Committeemen elected will take office August 1, 1960 and will serve until elections are held next year.

In order to be eligible to vote in the community committee elections, a person must have an interest in a farm in the community as owner, tenant or share-cropper, must be participating in the Agricultural Conservation Program, or carrying out on his farm one of the eligible practices covered by that program or be eligible for price support on one or more agricultural commodities he produces.

METHODISTS GIVE CARE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Methodist Church's 236 hospitals and homes last year served 1,520,913 persons, Dr. Olin E. Oeschger of Chicago, general secretary of the church's Board of Hospitals and Homes, reported at a meeting here.

Mystery Tinsel May Foul Up Radar Of 'Attacking' Planes

The skies over Morgan and adjacent Central Illinois counties, beyond the sound barrier, are believed to be the gigantic stage daily for defense operations which are showering the countryside with thin strands of shiny foil.

The slivers of tinsel are observed in fields and pastures over a wide area. Several farmers have picked up some of the tinsel and mailed it to The Journal Courier in envelopes. They believe the strands come from the air, but just how and why they are not certain.

An authority in aviation affairs said Saturday the ribbons of foil undoubtedly are released from jet planes of the Strategic Air Command, which are engaged in radar detection work. He said these metallic ribbons are used to "foul up" attacking planes, as the planes attempt to surprise mythical targets at various levels.

It is understood that a Strategic Air Command operation is in progress between Kansas City, Mo., and Indianapolis, Ind., with the Jacksonville area apparently in the midst of activities.

Metallic foil strands, it is said, put radar out of commission and often affect television reception while they are whirling through the sky.

Robert Dahman of Winchester route three was the first citizen in this section to report presence of the foil ribbons on his farm. He observed them at various times over a three mile area. J. Edwin Dinwiddie, north of Jacksonville, found many strands of foil on his property.

Roscoe Hardwick of Arenzville said a large amount of the material was found on his farmland in Morgan and Cass counties, about ten miles south of Beardstown on State Route 100.

Funds Raised By Mail Will Pay Student's Fare To Madagascar

A Quincy, Ill., student at MacMurray College has raised $1,635 by mail to participate in a work camp on the island of Madagascar off the west coast of Africa.

Miss Nancy Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton, 1238 Kentucky, Quincy, leaves in mid-July for the camp, sponsored by the Ecumenical Council of Chicago. It includes 15 to 20 other volunteers from the western world who will assist in reconstruction activities around Tanarive, a Madagascar city destroyed by a 1959 cyclone.

Their specific purpose is to rebuild churches and youth centers. In off hours they plan to help the natives in the areas of recreation and religion.

Miss Fulton, a MacMurray junior, started writing churches across the nation last Fall, asking them for funds for this purpose. The resultant $1,635 in funds was "just enough" to enable her to make the trip, for which she already had been selected by the Ecumenical Council.

"Transportation alone will cost me $1,300, including land, sea and air transport. The rest, of course, goes for room and board, insurance, pass-port, visa, etc."

A mathematics - psychology major with a consuming interest in counselling, Nancy already has gained experience in this area, having served last year in a New York work camp for southern Negro migrants.

She is a graduate of Quincy senior high school. At MacMurray, she was president of the Hostess Club, copy editor of the yearbook, and a member of the student judicial board.

ROOM TO GROW IN

Have you ever had to shudder when you walked into the bedroom shared by your two teenage boys after they had left for school? Did you wonder how on earth you'd ever bring order out of chaos — what you'd do with the strange conglomeration of oddities and equipment . . . books, dismantled telescope, records, baseball mitts, football helmets, tennis rackets and all the other possessions that are evidence of healthy exercise and personality interests of these growing men-to-be?

Take heart. A well - planned room with plenty of storage facilities will take care of all of this. More than that, it will help your boys develop a sense of order, the habit of putting everything in its place.

In the boys' room sketched above, two big roomy chests stacked side by side have been flanked by desks — to give each boy his own storage and study area. Commodious book shelves piled above the chests and one desk provide attractive wall interest as well as needed space for books, radio, and trinkets. Wall-to-wall carpet is a heavy woven rag-type that can take years of hard wear. Box springs and mattresses with sturdy brown denim covers give room a sitting room atmosphere. Brown covers fit in with brown and beige color scheme.

We are well aware that today's alert and busy homemakers want furnishings that are easy to live with, easy to look at, and easy to care for, for every room in the home. We have them here for you, at prices that are easy on your budget, too. Come in today!

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week mounted its greatest advance in more than 30 years amid forecasts of a fall upturn in business, signs of easier money, and plans for big boosts in defense spending.

The market wheelhorses, the badly battered and "oversold" steels, rails, and oils among others, came back into their own. The glamorous space age issues shrank into the background for a while but, on word of projected increases in spending for defense, these also posted gains.

Eleven billion dollars and more was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in The Associated Press average, it was estimated.

The AP 60-stock average climbed 8.20 to 224.50 for its biggest leap since the week ended Dec. 7, 1929 when the average recouped 8.40 of vast losses taken in the '29 crash.

The AP average was back to where it was in the third week of January when the market was plummeting.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 25.90 to 654.88, bringing its recovery to approximately one third of the losses sustained from its historic high of 685.47 reached Jan. 5 to its 1960 low of 599.10 reached March 8.

This percentage of recovery is a "classic" amount, according to the Dow theory, and it now remains to be seen whether a test of intermediate lows will be successful and the market can be expected to mount an assault on its high.

The traditional stocks were already rallying late in the prior week as news came out that the discount rate had been cut from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent by two Federal Reserve district banks. This sign that the government was easing credit to expedite a business upturn was underlined this week when similar discount rate reductions were announced for nine other reserve banks, including the big one in New York.

Expecations of a "traditional summer rally," as well as rising hopes that the administration would do all it could to help the economy make a good showing in time for the presidential election, were other factors in the phenomenal stock market advance.

Most active issue this week on the New York Stock Exchange was American Motors, unchanged at 24¼ on 219,900 shares.

Volume was 17,505,710 shares compared with 14,591,370 the prior week and was the largest since the week ended May 21 when 19,725,360 shares changed hands.

Of 1,418 issues traded, 947 advanced and 340 declined. New highs this week totaled 165 and new lows 87.

U.S. government bonds faltered early this week, then closed strong. Corporates started firm only to drift lower.

Volume for the week amounted to $28,907,900 par value on the New York Stock Exchange compared with $24,385,000 a week ago and $30,874,200 a year ago.

Mrs. Audace Herzberger, in a pleasing manner, presented the program which was "Shells." She brought before the club a large collection of shells which she had gathered from the beaches when she and her husband were on a trip through the Southland. She explained the different varieties and told of the beaches on which they were found. Mrs. Herzberger had asked each member to bring her collection of shells and articles made of shells. All proved most interesting and the program was very much enjoyed. The program was closed with singing the "Doxology."

Opinion here was that the oil companies, with commitments and obligations around the world, would insist they have the right as independent industries to choose their sources of supply.

Both sides appeared to be preparing for this eventuality.

The oil companies have quietly transferred a number of their American, British, and Dutch executives to other assignments.

Various other oilmen involved in the three refineries said they have packed their bags and are prepared to leave Cuba on short notice. Texaco, whose refinery is located at Santiago de Cuba, is evacuating women and children of its American employes there, company officials said.

Can Cuban workers operate the Esso Standard and Shell refineries in Havana and Texaco's Santiago plant? Maj. Ernesto Guevara, president of the Cuban National Bank, reportedly asked leaders of the pro-Castro Federation of Petroleum Workers that question several days ago and received an affirmative answer.

Castro in a 3½-hour speech which was easily his most violent attack yet on the United States:

1. Charged that the United States had committed an act of espionage by permitting a naval patrol plane to fly repeatedly over the Soviet cargo ship Dolinsk a week ago 10 miles off the north coast of Cuba.

2. Rejected as violent and virulent two American protests against his government and said Cuba would not answer them.

3. Asserted the U. S. State Departmnet had connived to implicate his government in an invasion of Nicaragua. He said Cuban investigation agents had tracked down the plot in New York and identified its leader as Chester Lacayo, believed to be a Nicaraguan. Castro flourished before the television cameras a telegram he said was sent to Lacayo confirming an interview with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Alton Man Killed By Shotgun Blast Near Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — The body of John W. Cundall of 518 East Ninth street, Alton, was brought to the Jacoby Brothers Funeral Home in this city about 2:15 p.m. Friday pending an inquest into his death. Cundall died a short time before of a shotgun wound in the abdomen in one of the picnic areas of Marquette State Park north of Grafton.

According to Deputy Sheriff Adam DeSherlia of the office of Sheriff Howard Perdun in this city, Cundall's condition was first discovered by occupants of a car from Harvey, Ill.

The driver of the car which was traveling on Route 100 where that highway traverses the Marquette State Park area, stopped his vehicle when he heard calls for help in the locality not far from the old Hartford Methodist church. The driver, Damon Hall, and a sister who was with him went toward the vicinity from which the calls for help were emanating.

Few Feet From Car

Hall found Cundall a few feet from the front door of his 1959 Ford which was parked in the new picnic area there. The muzzle of a Browning automatic shot gun was protruding from the open doorway of the car, and the stock of the weapon was within the vicinity of the floor near the driver's seat.

It appeared that Cundall after parking his car and getting out of the vehicle had started to remove the gun from the car and the weapon had been discharged, as he drew it toward himself.

Members of the Harvey car went for help, but Cundall was dead before further assistance arrived. Coroner Rodney C. Jacoby was notified and took charge of the body.

Leftists Show What May Happen To Ike supporters—who have been generally apathetic during the past month of demonstrations — for a massive Eisenhower welcome to counter the leftists.

Hagerty made it clear Eisenhower would make the trip to Japan as planned. But the White House announced the schedule for the trip was being reviewed and probably revised.

It is believed changes were being made so that Eisenhower would not be exposed to crowds too frequently. The changes also would remove any possible interpretation of his trip as politically inspired to help the embattled Prime Minister.

The long-heralded golf match with Kishi is definitely off. Also canceled was a news conference at which Eisenhower probably would have had to field political questions from Japanese reporters.

Although not confirmed, it is believed likely that Eisenhower will not address a joint session of Parliament—now boycotted by the Socialists, who represent at least a third of the voters.

Kishi has given his personal guarantee that Eisenhower will not be harmed here, and feverish official efforts are being made to assure him a resounding welcome. But the big question in Japan is whether the President really can be protected.

Just before Hagerty left Tachikawa Air Base northwest of Tokyo, he was asked whether he was satisfied with the guarantees given by the Japanese government for Eisenhower's safety.

"I can't answer that," replied Hagerty, who had just seen the demonstrators out in full force.

Hagerty had spent Friday closeted with officials of the American Embassy and the Japanese Foreign Ministry discussing Eisenhower's trip and the schedule revision.

Many of America's firmest friends in Japan seriously doubt the wisdom of the trip as possibly exposing Eisenhower to hostile demonstrations or even an attack.

Police and prosecutors announced they will begin a roundup of students, Socialists, Communists and union leaders responsible for the assault on Hagerty's car. Experience has shown that such people face little penalty after their arrest.

But many in Japan feel that the extreme anti-American measures of the left, especially the student members of Zengakuren, will stir public revulsion against the demonstrations and result in a great welcome for Eisenhower, just to prove the Japanese are hospitable and courteous.

Withhold Details Of Ike's Trip

Hagerty, who made an advance visit to Tokyo as well as other capitals on the trip and got an uncomfortable firsthand look at demonstrations of the type the President may well encounter.

Hagerty was besieged in his automobile when he sought to motor from the airport to the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo Friday.

Later thousands of demonstrators roamed the streets under red banners. Saturday night rowdy, snake-dancing paraders, estimated to total more than 150,000, shouted: "Yankee murderer, go home" and "Ike, don't come."

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's official residence was stoned. Paint was smeared on the fence. In the midst of this uproar Hagerty left his downtown hotel and motored to Tachikawa Air Base, west of Tokyo, where he took off for Anchorage.

Before leaving, he telephoned the White House with word that the detailed schedule of the President's visit to Japan was not ready for release. Word Friday had been that it would be given out Saturday. Assistant press secretary Anne Wheaton said information on the Japanese trip could be given out as the tour progresses.

Asked if the President still intends to go to Japan, she replied, "certainly."

The delay in publication of details gave Hagerty time to report personally to Eisenhower on his observations of police capabilities and his talks with Japanese officials. Hagerty also prevented freezing the schedule at this time; by refraining from making it public he preserved some room for flexibility.

One expected change is cancellation of tentative plans for Eisenhower and Emperor Hirohito to motor from Heneda International airport, Tokyo, to the Imperial Palace, more than a dozen miles away, after Eisenhower's June 19 arrival.

Another casualty of the revision is said to be a golf match June 21 between Eisenhower and Kishi. Also seriously doubted now is the possibility of an Eisenhower news conference in Tokyo.

Even the capital departure routine seemed to reflect the uncertainty of the Tokyo situation. It had been expected the President would issue a statement late Saturday on the eve of his take-off. However, Mrs. Wheaton told reporters that was ruled out; she thought there might be some presidential comment as he boarded the jetliner at Andrews Air Force Base Sunday morning.

GOP Has Room For Dissenters

date for the Democratic presidential nomination, that Eisenhower might have saved the summit meeting by expressing regrets to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the U2 incident.

Calling this "rather naive," Nixon said Khrushchev wanted to wreck the conference in any event.

Nixon said he wanted to join with Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton in rejecting what he called "the phony idea" that this country is in a second rate position in comparison with the Soviet Union. Rockefeller said the United States is inferior to the Soviet Union in some missile developments and that its missile and Strategic Air Command bases are vulnerable to attack.

"America is today the strongest country militarily, the strongest country economically, with the best educational system, the finest scientists in the world, overall," Nixon declared.

The vice president said the administration is just as interested in promoting economic growth as anyone else. Rockefeller had complained that the government is not doing enough to accelerate economic progress.

Nixon said he recognizes that the government should help in areas where individuals and the states cannot do the job. But he said he does not agree with those who contend the way to get results is for the government to spend more.

GOP state chairmen representing nine Southern states voiced their support for Nixon. G. Harold Alexander of Florida, head of the group, said Nixon had told them he plans to campaign in the South.

Musial Weakening In His Stand To Finish The Season

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Ralph Davidson, former Johnson City, Harrisburg and Benton coach, has accepted the Beardstown basketball post and succeeds Ted Coil. Davidson began his coaching career as head mentor of all the sports at Johnson City in 1936 and won consolation honors in the state playoff with senior Art Yates being a member of the squad. The new Tiger cage skipper played on the Johnson City state championship team of 1929 and was coached by LaRue VanMeter who later became Illinois College coach.

— o —

Davidson rates high in Yates' book as an outstanding coach who has always stressed a fast-break type attack. As soon as Beardstown fans become acquainted with their new basketball coach they'll be wanting him to renew his team trips to Champaign of which he has made quite a few. Welcome to the area Ralph.

The first hole-in-one at Nichols Park for 1960 was shot by Rev. Bernard C. Jeffries of Northminister Church on the 179 yard, par three fourth hole. Jeffries hit a high drive into the wind with his driver and the ball hit about 15 feet from the hole and then rolled in. He said about just what every other hole-in-one golfer has claimed, "It's quite a sensation."

If any of you have noticed a gleam in coaches Kraushaar and Rosenberger's eyes there is supposed to be a very good reason for the love that is shining there — it is football and the prospects for this fall. They have some lettermen back for which they are thankful but the report of a quarterback from Ohio and a 193 pound fullback from East Peoria moving to Jacksonville has kicked up their heels. They are taking it lightly however, that is until they meet the two backs in person.

Paddock Publications of Northern Illinois, the only newspaper I know of that picks an all-state track team, has come up with its fifth annual team. There are very few boys listed from Southern Illinois with Chicago area dominating the picks. Mal Portee who placed fourth in the state broad jump was the third straight JHS broad jumper to be honored and he rated fifth best in the state. A certificate of recognition was forwarded to Coach Rosenberger who in turn handed it over to Mal.

Wonder why certain areas around the old lake aren't cleaned up so that fishermen could have easier access to the tree-cluttered shoreline? I have noticed a number of persons fishing in back of the Nichols Ball Park and for curiosity sake I wandered down there to see what they were catching. The catches weren't of importance but the shoreline was. It was a mess! Nothing but trees and weeds and this is enough to discourage any fishermen. Why should someone interested in fishing have to go out of the city when we have the water and fish to go to in a matter of five or 10 minutes? If the place is cleaned up there are several advantages. First — more persons will fish there and the more it's fished the better it gets. Second — it would be good for local business. After all fishing people have to buy bait, food, gas and refreshments somewhere. It might as well be in Jacksonville.

Things are jelling for Merritt Norvell at Wisconsin and for Dave Bone at Northwestern. Coach Milt Bruhn is planning to use Merritt both ways as starting left halfback and Dave Bone is being counted on as a starting forward for the Wildcats. Evidently, Merritt did a good job against the Alumni as the Badgers won, 21-19. Norvell, who got his real taste of fire in this game, was playing against some pretty fast company in Elroy 'Crazy Legs' Hirsh, formerly of the Rams, and against Alan 'The Horse' Ameche of the Colts. Sportswriters had picked the Badgers to lose, 64-0. Norvell caught nine of 12 passes and set up one TD before being tripped at the three-yard line.

Merritt would like to stay in the city this summer if he can find work. But if he can't he will have to go back to Madison. Anyone knowing of a job please contact Norvell or myself. We greatly appreciate it.

Ahlquist Caught Spying Saturday On Patterson

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — Edwin Ahlquist, advisor to Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson, paid $1 Saturday to see challenger Floyd Patterson workout but instead was escorted out of the training camp by a pair of Connecticut state troopers.

Ahlquist arrived unannounced and paid his way in. An informant told Dan Florio, Patterson's trainer, he believed one of the cash customers was Ahlquist and the troopers were called.

In the excitement, Florio at first identified another man as Ahlquist but then the Swedish fight expert was seen on the far side of the ring. The troopers took him by each arm and escorted him outside.

Earlier in the training for the June 20 bout in New York's Polo Grounds, former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis visited the Johansson camp although he is a member of the Patterson entourage. At that time Patterson was quoted as saying he would permit visitors from the Johansson camp.

Patterson did 3½ miles on the road early Saturday and boxed three brisk rounds later.

Washington Nips Detroit, 8-7

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington ran up an 8-0 lead in the first four innings but had to hang on for dear life to beat Detroit, 8-7, Saturday. Tex Clevenger had to come from the bullpen for the fifth time this week to tame the Tigers in the ninth.

The Senators chased Dom Mossi with a five-run outburst in the third as Jim Lemon and Earl Battey each socked a two-run homer. Lemon's home run was his 13th, Battey's his seventh. Against Ray Semproch, the Senators pushed their lead to 8-0 in the fourth.

The Tigers banged across four runs and chased Bill Fischer in the sixth with Rocky Colavito's two-run homer the big blow. It was Colavito's eighth homer.

Helped by catcher Battey's muff of a foul popup, the Tigers added one in the seventh. With Battey making another error at the plate and shortstop Jose Valdivielso dropping a pop fly, the Tigers scored two more in the eighth.

GOLFING CHALLENGE

DENVER (AP)—Golf's finest players tackle one of golf's toughest courses here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the top prestige prize in the sport—the National Open Championship.

The site for this 60th open is the picturesque Cherry Hills Country Club in suburban Englewood, 7,004 yards of tree-dotted fairways, winding brooks, yawning traps and pint-sized greens that—the card says—play to a par of 35-36—71.

There will be few, the experts say, who'll play it in less.

75 Of 210 WIU Professors Failed To Express Their Feelings On Postseason Tilts

MACOMB—For professors bowl games are not a big issue at a university where a bowl game was nipped in the bud.

The professors at Western Illinois University—75 of them out of 210—didn't bother to return a ballot designed to measure their feeling on postseason games.

Polled by the Faculty Council, and the findings released today by President A. L. Knoblauch, they frowned on football bowls two-to one.

WIU is the home of the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference football and basketball champions. State Teachers College Board ruling killed any hopes of bowl glory last fall.

The majority of the voters joined with the College Board; they'd ban the bowl too. Out of 102 who marked the ballot, 31 profs would place no limitations on postseason games or sports. Twenty - nine profs wrote out their reactions. Professors voted 71-31 against postseason football games.

Twenty-two of the 102 not only would ban bowls but they urge the IIAC to work toward making the playing season shorter. Five would confine the bowl ban to football, two limit the ban to football, basketball and baseball.

And 28 profs would stop all postseason activity except for individual athletes—and 14 others would keep the athletics in their classes after the season too.

One professor washes his hands of the whole matter: "I understand the Athletic Board has a very good policy which they adopted some time ago. I will go along with it. They know more about athletics than I do. Also the conference has regulations which seem just and fair.

"What is the objection to letting them handle it? I would not want the whole faculty telling me when I can take my students to a contest, how often and on what dates. If the faculty Athletic Board cannot handle it, then appoint a new Athletic Board. So far I feel it is their concern and they have done a good job with it."

One professor would limit postseason playing to indivdual athletes with at least a high C average. Another would okay the playing so long as no classes are missed. Another would leave the matter up to the separate faculties and administration to settle. Another would allow benefit performances. For another the postseason game must be "significant."

The poll of WIU faculty was conducted by a special Faculty Council committee appointed by Dr. A. L. Knoblauch, president. Dr. John Castle, English Department, was chairman of the committee.

The story of the ban on bowl games and postseason competition dates back to November when the Illinois State Teachers College Board voted not to permit postseason games in any sport. The action was taken by the board after Carl Dunbar, resident member from Western Illinois University, asked the possibility of one of the universities participating in the NCAA football tourney if invited.

The State Board governs Northern Illinois University, Western Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University and Illinois State Normal University.

Governor William G. Stratton urged the board to reconsider its decision.

At its January meeting the board referred the ruling to its policy committee, who in February referred it to the presidents of the seven IIAC schools.

The presidents referred the ruling to the IIAC for a decision. Each member school of the conference has one vote on athletic policies, and it is cast by a faculty member. The vote was for no restrictions on bowl play except football by any of the seven IIAC schools. Individual ruling of each school and is administration governs post-season play at the present — except football which teams cannot play after Thanksgiving.

The Results:

31—yes for postseason games.

5—no football games after Thanksgiving.

2—no postseason games in football, basketball, baseball.

28—no postseason play except for individuals.

14—no postseason games for anybody.

22—no postseason games and recommend season be shortened.

29—write-ins—mostly no.

Nieman's Two-Out Double In The 9th Beats Pirates, 7-6

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Nieman's two-out double drove in the tying and winning runs in the ninth inning Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6.

It was the Redbirds' second straight victory over the Pirates and third in five meetings this season.

Nieman's blow came off Elroy Face, relief ace and the third Pittsburgh pitcher in a final frame that saw the Redbirds rally for five hits. Pittsburgh apparently had put the game away with Dick Stuart's two-run homer off Marshall Bridges in the seventh.

St. Louis jumped to a 4-0 lead off Joe Gibbon with the help of Ken Boyer's 16th homer, a tremendous two-run smash, and Daryl Spencer's ninth homer.

However, the Buccos then bounced back to score four times in the fourth, knocking out Ray Sadecki, young Redbird left-hander, and went in front 6-4 on Stuart's belt in the seventh.

JUNE PAYMENTS A RECORD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — June eligibility payments have been made on a record number of 543 horses for the 1960 Illinois State Fair Colt Stakes, the harness sport's richest program of racing.

J. Ralph Peak, general manager of the fair, said Saturday the June payment, second in a series to make horses eligible for the races, topped last year's total by 92 horses.

Approximately one quarter of a million dollars will be awarded in the colt stakes, which will be raced on three days. The bulk of that sum — about $180,000 — will be awarded Aug. 15 when the 2 and 3-year-old trotting and pacing events are run.

RACING RETURNS HOME

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)— American auto racing returns next weekend to the scene of its origin 56 years ago.

Ten races, sponsored by the New York region of the Sports Car Club of America, will be run Saturday and Sunday over a special course at Roosevelt Raceway. It was near this harness horse track that William K. Vanderbilt Jr., in 1940 sponsored the first automobile race of any consequence in the United States.

Zuni and Hopi, among other American Indians, cultivated cotton long before the Spanish conquest.

Cubs To Pay Youngster Over $100,000 Bonus

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs will sign a 17-year-old Beverly, Mass., baseball player for a bonus of more than $100,000 sometime next week, Chicago's American reported Saturday night.

The story, appearing under the byline of staffer James Enright, says Danny Murphy will receive the biggest bonus in Cub history.

Murphy played for St. John's prep in Danvers, Mass. He is a versatile youngster who pitches, plays third base and the outfield.

Murphy, sought by 14 of the 16 major league clubs, will be signed by Lennie Merullo, a former Cub shortstop. Merullo is Murphy's godfather.

The story said that according to reports, the Cubs have promised Murphy and his parents that Danny will be "playing in our outfield immediately."

This promise of immediate action was another factor in landing Murphy. The story said that Milwaukee Braves' owner Lou Perini, a native of the Boston area, offered young Murphy a blank check and said:

"Talk it over with your parents and fill in any amount you want when you are ready to sign with the Braves."

Last summer Murphy played in a league in Nova Scotia against highly rated prep and collegiate athletes and batted .275.

The Cubs reportedly hope to have Murphy signed and playing in Monday's exhibition game against the Chicago White Sox.

Phillies Romp Chicago, 7-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Christopher Short, 22-year-old southpaw, limited the Chicago Cubs to five hits Saturday in pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-1 victory.

It was Short's third triumph among four decisions.

The Cubs' run came on Ernie Banks' homer in the seventh—his 16th of the season.

The Phillies scored a run in the first inning off loser Dick Ellsworth. Alvin Dark singled with one out and reached second when Wally Post walked. With two out rookie outfielder Ken Walters singled, scoring Dark.

The Phils got three runs in the seventh with the Chicago infield contributing three errors—one by each baseman.

Bobby Del Greco, Dark and Tony Taylor, the first three batters up in the seventh, all reached base on successive errors by Frank Thomas, Don Zimmer and Ed Bouchee.

TRAINING COACH

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Paul Christman, a commentator on telecasts of the St. Louis Football Cardinals, will serve in a coaching capacity at the Cardinals' Lake Forest, Ill., college training camp this year, the club announced Saturday.

Christman was a standout back at Missouri University just before World War II. As a quarterback, he led the Chicago Cardinals to the pro football championship in 1947.

St. Louis Favorite Giving More Thought To Early Retirement

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Musial is weakening in his stand to finish the season and the St. Louis Cardinal great is giving more thought to retirement, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said Saturday night.

The 39-year-old seven-time National League batting champion was benched two weeks ago by Redbird Manager Solly Hemus in favor of the club's youth movement.

Stan insisted then he had no "immediate plans for retiring" but the Globe said it "has learned authoritatively that the Cardinals' Mr. Records may be weakening in his stand to finish the season."

Musial often has said that he would never quit a club before the end of the season, having signed a contract for the full season.

But although General Manager Bing Devine denied Musial's benching was permanent, it appears to be just that in Hemus mind.

When benched Stan said he felt the move was made because the club was losing and some move was needed. He added "now we will see what happens. I think I'll be back in the lineup soon."

The sports editors of both St. Louis newspapers, the Globe Democrat and Post-Dispatch, blasted Hemus and the Cardinals just one week before the benching for trying "to embarrass and humiliate Musial into retiring."

Musial is hitless in six pinch-hitting appearances since the benching and is batting only .235. Bill White, the club's top hitter at .321, was moved from center field to first base, Musial's position and Curt Flood was put into centerfield. In two weeks of regular duty, Flood has pulled his average up to .200.

Giants Fumble 9-5 Loss To Milwaukee

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves, aided immeasurably by five Giants errors, whipped San Francisco 9-5 Saturday in a wild contest before 36,711 in Candlestick Park.

Four of the Giant errors contributed to Braves runs. Billy Bruton hit a three-run third-inning homer and the Braves collected nine hits off four Giant pitchers.

Don McMahon came up with a good job of relief pitching when he bailed out Joey Jay in the eighth. Jay, who came on in the seventh in relief of starter Juan Pizzaro, served up a lead-off homer to Willie Kirkland and walked Andre Rodgers and pinchhitter Willie McCovey. McMahon struck out Don Blasingame and got pinch-hitter Dale Long to hit into a double play.

The victory brought the Braves to within 3½ games of the league leading Pittsburgh and 2½ of the Giants.

Littler Winds Up With Lead In Oklahoma Open

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Soft-stroking Gene Littler found things to his liking Saturday and wound up with the third-round lead in the $30,000 Oklahoma City Open Golf Tournament.

Littler, putting as smoothly as silk over lightning fast greens, came around the Twin Hills Country Club course in 70 shots to post a 54-hole total of 205.

A 30-mile-an-hour wind failed to balk his mastery of the 6,440-yard course with par of 35-36—71.

Littler's round enabled him to get 8 under par for the tournament which winds up with another 18-hole round Sunday.

Snipping at his heels at 206 was Gardner Dickinson Jr., of Palm Beach, Fla. At 207 was Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., who shot the best round of the day—a four-under-par 67.

Nieder's Toss Highlights Forces Meet

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Bill Nieder, his right knee swathed in bandages, bounced back into action Saturday after a month in sick bay and got off a 62-foot, 7-inch shot put to highlight the final day's action in the Armed Forces Track and Field Championships.

In other features, Jan Sikorsky, a 20-year-old Marine, whipped world record holder Al Cantello in the javelin with 257-6½—the best of his career, and Tom Rodda of Army captured the 1,500 meters in 3:45.5.

Rodda, who did his collegiate running at Kansas, barely nipped Mike Fleming of the Marine Corps. Fleming also was caught in 3:45.5, just a half-second off the qualifying mark for the Olympics. Clocking is the equivalent of a 4:02.5 mile.

Nieder, the muscular ex-Kansas strongboy who now is a lieutenant in the Army, pulled a hamstring muscle in his right knee a month ago while training.

Nieder, who has a world record of 65-7 pending, automatically qualified for the Olympic trials at Palo Alto, Calif., July 1-2, as did all the other winners here.

EXCELLENT PITCHING

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Five University of Connecticut pitchers posted a spectacular 0.69 earned run average in winning the season's first four games for the Huskies. They walked only seven batters in 39 innings, as Connecticut's New England Yankee Conference champions defeated Rhode Island, American International, Yale and Wesleyan.

Trojans Team Favorite For NCAA Crown

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP — United States Olympic track and field potential takes a big test here Friday and Saturday with the nation's top collegians battling in the NCAA championships.

In each event, the six leading Americans will qualify for the Olympic trials at Stanford, July 1-2.

Once again the Trojans of Southern California rank as the team favorite. They didn't compete in the collegiate championships last year because of NCAA sanctions brought on by overenthusiastic football recruiting.

Kansas took the title with the Spartans of San Jose State second and both are highly rated again this year for the meet at the University of California's Edwards Stadium.

Boston University didn't have an NCAA track champion before last year but the Terriers could come up with two this time. John Lawlor, who broke the ice for his school with the hammer throw title in 1959, returns. And high jumper John Thomas has cleared 7 feet or more 23 times with a top of 7-2½ indoors and 7-1¾ outdoors.

Returning champions in addition to Lawlor include Charley Tidwell of Kansas in the 100-yard dash, George Kerr of Illinois in the half mile, Dick Cochran of Missouri in the discus and Bill Alley of Kansas in the javelin.

Kerr, the Jamaican starring for Illinois, may double in both the 400 and 800 meters but while observers figure he could be the favorite in either they believe he would run into trouble trying to compete in both.

Casper Wins Round Of The Champs With 67

AKRON, Ohio (AP— Billy Casper, National Open champion, fired a three-under-par 67 here Saturday, winning the "round of the champions" competition with Bob Rosburg, PGA champ.

Casper's score sets up the competition for anyone trying to "beat the champs" in the National Golf Day play.

Rosburg's score of 70 equaled par for the revamped Firestone Country Club, which will be the scene of the National PGA Tournament July 21-24.

Casper teamed up with entertainer Phil Harris against Rosburg and dancer Ray Bolger. The National Open champ was out with a two-under 33 and back in with 34, one under the regulation figures.

Rosburg was out three under and returned three over par.

Harris finished with an 81, Bolger with 78.

Celtic Ash Comes From Last Place To Win Belmont Stakes

Catches Venetian Way 8th Of A Mile Out To Capture $150,900

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Celtic Ash, from the Emerald Isle, came from last place Saturday and showed his heels to six other 3-year-old horses in the $150,900 Belmont Stakes.

With Bill Hartack in the saddle for his initial appearance in the 1½-mile classic, Celtic Ash stepped under the wire a 5¼-length winner over the Sunny Blue Farm's Kentucky Derby winner, Venetian Way.

Venetian Way got second money over the King Ranch's Disperse. It was another length back to C. V. Whitney's odds-on favorite, Tompion.

This was the final gem of the Derby - Preakness - Belmont triple crown and it was run without the presence of Bally Ache, Preakness winner and derby runner-up. Bally Ache was withdrawn Friday because of a slight leg injury.

Celtic Ash carried the green and gold silks of the Green Dunes Farm of Joseph E. O'Connell, retired Boston banker. The victory gave O'Connell a perfect record in the stakes. He also won in 1958 with Cavan, another Irish-raised colt.

The horses broke from the gate directly in front of the stands for the big once-around gallop, with the Cain Hoy Stable's Tooth and Nail going to the front. Right alongside were Venetian Way, with Eddie Arcaro seeking his seventh Belmont victory, and Tompion, with Willie Shoemaker in the saddle.

Tompion was in the lead by about a length and Venetian Way was next, followed by Tooth and Nail, Disperse and the rest, with Celtic Ash far back as they went into the backstretch with a mile to travel. Midway down the backside Arcaro sent the Kentucky Derby winner out in front.

Arcaro still had Venetian Way in front as they straightened out for home with a quarter-mile to travel. But it was evident that the luck of the Irish was going to prevail. Celtic Ash caught Venetian Way an eighth of a mile out and it was all over.

The time of 2:29 3-5 was far off Gallant Man's American record of 2:26 3-5 set in winning the 1957 renewal. Celtic Ash paid $18.80, $6.40 and $4.30. Venetian Way returned $7.20 and $5.30, Disperse $7.20.

Friday Baseball

Willie's wheelin' again, Sad Sam's still a stopper and the San Francisco Giants have breezed back within one game of the National League lead.

Which Willie? Forget it. There's just one. Name's Mays, and he belted loose from a slump with two singles and a three-run homer Friday night as the Giants whipped Milwaukee 5-0 behind a five-hit pitching job by Sam Jones.

That halved Pittsburgh's lead after the Pirates had lost 9-6 at St. Louis.

Cincinnati managed just three hits, but one was Dutch Dotterer's grand-slam home run, giving the Reds a 4-3 victory at Los Angeles. The Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 6-1.

In the American League, the New York Yankees ended Cleveland's winning streak at five, defeating the first-place Indians 4-3 on Mickey Mantle's eighth-inning home run. Second-place Baltimore closed within a half-game by beating Kansas City 5-4. Detroit defeated Washington 7-4. Chicago's White Sox battered Boston 13-3.

Mays was 0-for-19 before getting a hit in his last at-bat as the Giants suffered their third defeat in four games Thursday. Now he is 4-for-4, walking in his last trip Friday night after tagging loser Warren Spahn (4-3) for his three hits. He scored twice and stole two bases.

Mays got the Giants started with a single in the fourth, coming around on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Willie McCovey. Then he walloped a 410-foot homer, his eighth, in the fifth inning after Ed Bressoud's two-out bunt single and a walk.

Jones (8-4), the Giants only winner in the past five games, now is 7-0 at home in Candlestick Park.

Cardinal right-hander Larry Jackson (8-5) won his seventh in a row, but needed relief help after giving up home runs by Don Hoak and Smoky Burgess in the fifth and sixth innings. The Cards beat ex-mate Harvey Haddix (3-3) with a five-run fifth, scoring them all with two out. Ken Boyer hit his 15th home run, tying Ernie Banks of the Cubs for the NL lead.

Dotterer's slam came in the second inning off Sandy Koufax (1-8)—who struck out the side in the first inning, then walked the bases loaded in the second. Bob Purkey was the winner, blanking the Dodgers on four hits until Norm Sherry, who drove in all three runs with two homers, socked his fourth of the year in the seventh inning. Jim Brosnan saved it after Sherry's two-run shot off Bill Henry in the ninth.

Mark Freeman, a Yankee castoff, won his first in the majors with a four-hitter for the Cubs. Jim Owens (3-6) was the loser. He gave up Banks' 15th homer in the third inning —a two-run clincher.

Youth Admits Helping Trio Sought By Police

CHICAGO (AP) — Police said Saturday a teen-ager has admitted helping three Chicago men sought for robbing a Fontana, Wis., store and abducting the Lakewood, Ill., police chief.

The Army-Navy Surplus Store in Fontana, Wis., was robbed of 30 pistols, three boxes of ammunition and $225 cash last Tuesday night.

The same night Police Chief Edward O'Neil of Lakewood in McHenry County was taken captive by three bandits who later abducted Fred Vallery of Barrington, Ill., and a woman acquaintance.

Police Lt. Maurice Higgins of Chicago said Saturday night that Walter Mickiewicz, 18, admitted helping the bandit trio after the Wisconsin robbery.

Mickiewicz was arrested Friday night as his auto went through a red light. Detectives said the auto's windshield had an ornament which several Chicago holdup victims had mentioned in descriptions of their assailants' getaway car.

Higgins said Mickiewicz admitted being the getaway driver for three other men in four Chicago holdups May 31 and told of helping the three bandits after their return from Fontana, Wis.

Higgins said the wanted men are Roy Hamilton, 24; Alvin Sherman, 21, and James Blaha, 20, all of Chicago.

Last Tuesday night three gunmen entered the Fontana store, threatened the owner, Clarence Hutchinson, 47, and tied him up. The bandits also tied up Dennis Samm, 25, Delavan Lake, who happened to walk in, and Hutchinson's son Robert, 14, who entered to call his father for dinner.

After the robbery, Hutchinson reached a window. He called for help, and described the getaway car.

Chief O'Neil was captured by the bandits in Crystal Lake after he had spotted the getaway car and given chase.

O'Neil, who was struck on the head with a gun, was released later.

Near Barrington, the bandits posed as motorists in trouble and halted the car carrying Vallery and a woman companion.

The bandits forced Vallery and the woman into the rear seat and drove the car to Chicago, abandoning it on the Northwest Side.

Mickiewicz told police that early Wednesday morning Hamilton and Sherman came to the back door of his home, told him of the Fontana robbery and asked him to drive them downtown.

The lieutenant said police across the nation are watching for Hamilton, Sherman and Blaha.

Mickiewicz was slated for a hearing in Holiday Court Sunday on robbery charges.

TWO MORE TO LOSE

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)— Ingemar Johansson ran two miles over the fairways of a golf course Saturday, the first time he has done roadwork since an aching back halted him last Tuesday. After the run, the world heavyweight boxing champion said he felt no pain.

Johansson, who defends his crown against Floyd Patterson in the New York Polo Grounds June 20, weighed 198 pounds. He plans to enter the ring at 196.

Revoke Licenses Of Men Rigging Onion Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two wealthy produce men accused of rigging the onion futures market in 1955 and 1956 have lost their trading privileges for a period of 10 months.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said it has directed all contract markets throughout the nations to deny trading privileges to Vincent W. Kosuga of Pine Island N.Y., and Sam S. Siegel of Franklin Park, Ill., a Chicago suburb.

The order, dated June 7 and effective July 4, also applies to National Produce Distributors Inc., of which Siegel is president. In addition, the USDA revoked Kosuga's license as a floor broker.

The order stems from an investigation by the commodity Exchange Authority in 1955 and 1956 of charges that Kosuga attempted to manipulate the price of the 1955 November onion future on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange and of cash onions. In addition, Kosuga, Siegel and National Produce Distributors were charged with manipulation of the 1956 March onion future as well as cash onions.

Braves Announce Sale Of Rush To Pale Hose

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves Saturday announced the sale of pitcher Bob Rush to the Chicago White Sox for the waiver price.

A spokesman for the Braves said all other National League clubs have waived on the bit 34-year-old relief pitcher, paving the way for his purchase by the defending American League champions.

Earlier in the day, the Braves had called up 25-year-old southpaw George Brunet from the Louisville farm club in the American Assn. This made it necessary for Milwaukee to cut one player to get down to the 25-player limit.

Rush, a 6-5 right-hander who spent 10 years with the Chicago Cubs, was used largely as a relief pitcher by the Braves. He was 2-0 this season, picking up both victories in relief. Last year his 2.41 earned run mark in a 5-6 season was the lowest on the staff. He walked just 23 batters and permitted only five homers in the 101 innings he worked. His major league career mark includes 127 victories.

In Chicago, president Bill Veeck of the White Sox said scout Bill Norman had been watching Rush in recent weeks and, "We believe he can help us—that's why we got him."

Rush will be with the Sox when they open a home stand Tuesday night against the Washington Senators.

Rangy North Team Faces South In All-Star Tilt

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)— A rangy north squad will clash with the south in the 1960 renewal of the north-south Illinois all star high school basketball game in the Urbana Armory July 16.

Seven of the 10-man north team tower 6-5 or more compared with only four on the south squad.

George Wilson, 6-8, of Marshall High School in Chicago, and Jerry Sloan, 6-5, of McLeansboro, will wear the coveted No. 1 on their jersies. They were the top vote-getters in balloting among Illinois sports editors who selected the teams.

Tallest player in the game will be 6-11½ George Clark of Elgin. Others in the 6-5 or better category on the north team are Wilson, Bill Skea of Batavia, 6-9; Bernie Mills, Chicago Dunbar, 6-7; Bumpy Nixon, Galesburg, 6-6½; John Love, Ottawa, 6-5, and Dennis Hansen, Glenbard, 6-6.

In addition to Sloan, south squad members 6-5 or more are Gene Turni, Herrin, 6-7; Dave Roach, Pinckneyville, 6-7, and Stan Luechtefeld, Okawville, 6-5.

Spin Salario, who coached Marshall to two state championships in the past three years, will direct the north team. Coach Barney Oldfield of McKendree College will handle the south's coaching chores.

The game was revived this year as a part of the Champaign centennial celebration.

Howard's Pinch Homer Brings Yankees 6-4 Victory Over Indians

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard's two-run pinch homer in the seventh inning gave the New York Yankees their fifth straight victory Saturday, a 6-4 decision over the league-leading Cleveland Indians.

Roger Maris, the leading home run slugger in the majors, hit his 17th and Yogi Berra smashed his fifth among the Yank's nine hits. Only two of the Yanks hits were singles. Johnny Temple hit his first homer of the year for the Indians with a man on in the third.

A crowd of 26,843 saw an early battle between starters Whitey Ford and Jim Grant wind up in a struggle of relief pitchers in which Ryne Duren received credit for the victory over Johnny Klippstein. Johnny James mopped up for the Yanks in the last two innings.

The lead see-sawed back and forth until Howard, batting for Duren in the seventh, slammed a Klippstein pitch into the lower left field seats.

Chisox Score 7 Runs In Nightcap To Gain Split In Twin-Bill

BOSTON (AP) — Minnie Minoso's crazy-carom double highlighted a seven-run inning for Chicago Saturday night as the White Sox won 8-4 and divided a double-header with the Boston Red Sox.

Two-run homers by Ted Williams and Vic Wertz enabled Boston to win the afternoon contest 5-4. Williams' 540-foot drive—No. 497 in his career—tied the score 3-3 in the sixth and Ted walked ahead of Wertz' decisive blow in the eighth as the Red Sox broke a seven-game losing streak.

While Boston survived three errors and three unearned runs in the sunlight hours, its two errors plus two walks and five hits put Chicago ahead 7-0 in the third inning of the nightcap.

Minoso hit a smash which banked off the inside of the third base bag to the outstretched glove of Frank Malzone and caromed to within inches of the Chicago dugout. By the time the ball was retrieved, Minoso had a two-run double and had boosted his season's runs-batted-in total to 38.

Minnie finished the twin bill with five hits in nine trips, hiking his batting average 12 points to .314.

Britain's Cup Team Regains Tennis Trophy

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Britain's Wightman Cup team, led by tall Christine Truman, won three out of four matches Saturday and regained the international women's tennis trophy with a 4-3 victory over the United States.

Miss Truman, a six-foot Amazon of the courts with a power game to match her size, won her singles match from Karen Hantze of San Diego, Calif., to open play and teamed with Mrs. Shirley Bloomer Brasher to win the last and deciding doubles match from Janet Hopps of Seattle, and Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Panama.

The collapse of Miss Hopps, captain of the American team, after she suffered a severe leg cramp in her singles match apparently cost the United States its chance of retaining the trophy.

The Americans were leading 3-2 and needed only one more victory in two matches to clinch the series. Miss Hopps won the first set from Angela Mortimer and was leading 4-2 in the second when she was stricken. Barely able to hobble around, she couldn't return Miss Mortimer's drives and went down 6-8, 6-4, 6-1.

She had to be helped off the court at the finish and for 35 minutes the crowd of 4,500 waited to see if she could play in the doubles.

Janet finally decided she could go on and she didn't show any sign of cramp in the doubles. But she and Mrs. Knode couldn't match Miss Truman and Mrs. Brasher.

They won 6-4, 9-7 after losing the first four games of the first set and trailing 1-4 in the second.

In the day's other matches, Miss Truman trounced 17-year-old Miss Hantze 7-5, 6-3; Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., defeated Ann Haydon 6-8, 6-4, 6-1 to put the United States into the lead again, and then Miss Mortimer squared the series by beating Miss Hopps.

Search Bay For Missing Crash Victims

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Searchers probed shark-infested waters off the port city of Mackay Saturday for 21 bodies still unrecovered from the crash of an Australian airliner.

Two Americans and 9 children were among the 28 persons who died when the twin-engine Fokker Friendship of the trans-Australian Air Line crashed in a heavy fog Friday night.

"Every bit was smashed to smithereens," said one searcher. "Shoes were found still laced but split open down the soles. We picked up a lot of soggy schoolbooks."

Searchers reported sighting a dozen sharks in the crash area. One of the recovered bodies had been badly mauled.

The body of John F. O'Grady, U.S. consul in Brisbane, was among the seven picked up by search boats. Vincent Nicholas Bissen of Boston, Mass., was the other American victim.

The airliner was on a 500-mile flight along the east coast of Australia from Brisbane to Mackay when it crashed. It was circling over the airport waiting for the weather to clear when radio contact was suddenly lost.

Aviation exprets said the altimeter probably failed and the plane hit the sea before the pilot saw the water in the fog.

The children were going home on a holiday from school.

CHICAGO FIRM HIT BY FIRE

CHICAGO (AP) — An extra-alarm fire raced through a one-story block long manufacturing plant today.

Twenty-two employes, only a small portion of the normal work force, were in the Anderson Tool and Manufacturing Co. on the Northwest Side when the blaze erupted. All escaped.

C. N. Anderson, owner, estimated damage at $300,000. Fifty feet of a rear wall and a section of roof collapsed.

Workers told firemen that sparks from a welding torch being used to install a conveyer belt ignited sweeping compound and spread to cooling oil.

Nearly 100 firemen and 35 pieces of fire equipment were summoned to the scene.

Jerry Hill, Wyoming's crack left halfback, gained 141 yards in eight carries in the spring football game.

Pender's Pilot Seeking A Bout With Ole Archie

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Buckley, manager of minority middleweight champion Paul Pender, Saturday appeared to be trying some reverse English to land a title-clearing match with NBA king Gene Fullmer.

Sugar Ray Robinson, who lost the first championship rematch bout in his remarkable 21-year fistic career Friday night — a 15-round split decision to Pender, pondered calling it quits.

Neither planned any hasty decisions. Pender will vacation for several weeks in Florida with his wife. Robinson is heading back for New York to think things over.

Buckley said he will try for a match with World Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore, following Pender's repeat of his Jan. 22 conquest of the 40-year-old Sugar Man for the Massachusetts-New York-European version of the crown.

"What do we want with Fullmer?" Buckley said. "Pender is world champion. Fullmer is only the NBA champ. And he ran out on a fight with Paul a year ago March for which he was suspended in Massachusetts and New York. Do you think we're going to chase Fullmer?"

In the next breath the crafty manipulator added:

"We're going to wait a month or so before we decide on anything. We don't want to make any hasty decision."

If local speculation is correct, the strategy is an old one—insist on trying for one opponent while trying to lure the actual target into a match.

Meanwhile promoter Sam Silverman said Fullmer "owes me a date, but I'm not pushing right now."

Halas Blasts New Loop For Signing Pair

CHICAGO (AP) — The recent signing of two college undergraduate stars by the new American Football League could lead to wholesale raiding of college ranks, a top spokesman for the rival National Football League charged Saturday.

Although both had dropped out of school, the AFL signing of junior guard Ernie Wright of Ohio State and sophomore tackle Jack Sherer of Miami of Florida was hit by owner George Halas of the Chicago Bears.

The Los Angeles Chargers of the new league starting this fall signed Wright, a 250-pounder, and the New York Titans of the infant loop took Sherer, a 230-pounder at 19.

Admitting that both players were prize pro prospects, Halas pointed out that neither could be signed by a National Football League club until his original college class was graduated.

"If this is indicative of the new league's future policy," said Hallas, "the gates are wide open for wholesale raiding of college squads."

★ GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD ★

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEWTOWN, Conn. — (NEA) — No one knows, not even the former champion himself, how many opponents Floyd Patterson will be called upon to face when he attempts to regain the heavyweight title from Ingemar Johansson on June 20.

There will be only one corporeal antagonist — Johansson. But Patterson may bring an unwanted, and perhaps an even more dangerous adversary into the Polo Grounds battlepit ring with him — the specter of his ignominious third-round knockout at the Hands of the Nonchalant Norseman a year ago.

Everything else being even — that is, if Patterson answers the bell without a mental block — just what are his chances of becoming the first man ever to win back the ring's highest award?

Patterson still clings to the so-called peekaboo style working with deadly dedication at his sylvan retreat in the Connecticut hills outside of Newtown. Floyd clasps his clenched gloves to his head like a guy suffering from multiple toothache. Critics contend it is a poor defense and that the Brooklyn-developed lad can't get anything much on punches from this position.

IT WAS THIS STYLE that led to his downfall when Johansson caught him peeking and rammed a lightning-like right hand punch through the peephole to score the first seven knockdowns that forced referee Ruby Goldstein to halt the slaughter.

"An experienced fighter can't change his style," stresses trainer Don Florio, who defends the peekaboo business. "And I wouldn't do it if I could. It's not a bad way to fight at all. Floyd doesn't hold his hands next to his face. They are shoulder high. He can and does punch from there."

That's the way Florio, who has been around the dodge 40 years, sees it, but he will find a lot of people who disagree with him.

"There are a few things I plan to do differently, but I can't talk about them," Patterson told me as we chatted at the entrance of the abandoned night club in which Floyd works and lives. "You'll have to see them in the ring. I hope they work out."

PATTERSON SPARS WITH Julio Mederos, who was a good right-hand puncher, and his kid brother, Raymond. Mederos seems to be working with his right hand under wraps, but throws plenty of lefts to Patterson's midsection — and catches flurries of jabs to the head and hooks to the body. Except when he is throwing punches like Khrushchev casting aspersions. Patterson seems to put his entire heart and soul into every blow, grunting loudly with each wallop.

Patterson's 17-year-old brother, an amateur, punches at Floyd with wild abandon, and therein lies a significant factor. Raymond lands almost every short right he throws to the head, and in the same manner that Johansson contacted the Patterson jaw. Granted that Floyd is not trying to hurt his baby brother, he has no right being hit by those rights.

The way many boxing men see it, Floyd Patterson's only chance of survival is to avoid being hit squarely by Ingemar Johansson's "toonder and lighting" right hand.

And the way he looks in training, that's a forlorn hope.

Battling Orioles Regain 1st Place By Tripping A's

BALTIMORE (AP) — The battling Baltimore Orioles came from behind again Saturday night, scoring two runs in the 10th inning to edge the Kansas City Athletics 6-5 and move back into the American League lead.

Baltimore eased one-half game ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who lost 6-4 to the New York Yankees in a day game.

For the second straight game, Brooks Robinson knocked in the winning run for the Orioles, who won their 16th game of the season in come-from-behind fashion. In one-run games, Baltimore's record is 16-4.

Dick Williams' homer in the top of the 10th, the third of the game for Kansas City, put the Athletics ahead 5-4.

But rookie Jim Gentile led off the Oriole half of the inning with a single, his third of the game, off relief pitcher Leo Kiely. Rookie Ron Hansen, the league's RBI leader, fouled off three 3-2 pitches and then doubled home pinch-runner Al Pilarcik to tie the score. It was Hansen's 41st RBI of the season.

Illini Girls State Will Open Tuesday With Party Caucuses

Party caucuses to nominate candidates for city offices will be part of first day activities when the 20th annual Illini Girls State begins Tuesday, June 14 at MacMurray College.

Established in 1940, the week-long meeting will begin when about 500 high school juniors from every county in Illinois arrive by bus at the Jacksonville campus. They will register, take physical exams, and receive room assignments before launching into activities.

Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Girls State will be conducted until termination June 21 by a staff of about 70 women active in the auxiliary. This includes 25 counselors who were formerly girls staters and who now are attending college.

The girls are selected because of their interest in civics and government along with their qualities of leadership and good character. They will elect not only city, but county and state officials in the process of setting up a mythical state patterned after Illinois government.

Elect Mayor, Aldermen

City officials to be elected will be a mayor, two aldermen, a city clerk and city treasurer. The mayor, upon her election, shall appoint a city police officer, a city superintendent of schools and may make such other appointments as seems advisable. County officials to be elected include a judge, superintendent, state's attorney, and county clerk.

Offices of the three branches of state government will also be filled by general election. In the legislative branch, one state senator from each senatorial district will be elected, and three members of the House of Representatives from each representative district will also be included. In the judicial branch, court judges will be elected. Executive offices will include lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor of public accounts, superintendent of public instruction, and governor.

Two Party System

Each delegate to Girls State will be assigned to a political party, either the federalist or the nationalist, at the time of registration Tuesday afernoon. Each party adopts its platform, cheers, campaign slogan, and motto at the State Party Convention and rises or falls in its campaign according to the appeal made to the citizens.

In each of the six congressional districts, a state central committeeman is elected in each party at the primary. Upon their election at the primary, the state central committeemen meet on Friday afternoon, and elect from their own number the chairman of the state central committee. She becomes the head of the party affairs in the state from then on. In addition, each political party holds its state party convention as designated on the calendar.

ADVERTISING PAYS COUNTY OFFICIALS

RUSHVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Charles Hawk, 29, and Marjorie Fletcher, 26, of Dayton, Ohio, were married in this Schuyler County seat Saturday, but it took a bit of doing.

The courthouse was closed, as it always is on Saturdays.

But County Clerk D. W. Runkle came down to the courthouse and issued a license and County Judge Ernest Utter came down and married the couple in his office.

The newlyweds said they had read a story last March about how an Iowa couple got married in Rushville on Sunday through the cooperation of clerk and judge. That apparently was why they drove to Rushville from Dayton.

WHITE SHOES OR TAN--AND DOES SHE EAT GRASS?

ST. ELMO, Ill. (AP)— The black clad figure of a woman in dark glasses, arms swinging freely at her sides, strode through the business district Friday.

"There goes Dr. Barbara Moore," folks said. Some tried to keep pace with her. A few asked for autographs. Others called out a welcome to the vegetarian hiker.

The woman maintained a lofty silence, looked straight ahead and soon disappeared down U. S. Highway 40.

Then someone recalled an inconsistency in the hiker's costume. She was wearing white shoes. Dr. Moore's are tan.

Besides, the real Dr. Moore passed through St. Elmo earlier in the day.

Wonder if the duplicate Dr. Moore eats grass?

Dr. Barbara Moore stopped for dinner late Saturday in her transcontinental hike, still more than 70 miles from the Indiana border, but planned to resume her hike in the cooler evening hours.

The 56 - year - old vegetarian stopped about three miles east of Teutopolis, Ill., or about 7 miles east of Effingham, at 4:40 p.m. (CRT). She was driven to the five-star motel at Greenup, Ill., 23 miles east of Effingham, for dinner.

Dr. Moore planned to resume her hike at her exact stopping point. She doesn't fudge an inch in her San Francisco-to-New York walk, designed to prove the benefits of a meatless diet.

She renounced all social activities Friday night, explaining she needs the cool night air for walking to make up time. A sunburn, blisters and a sprained ankle have put her behind schedule.

Lenzi - Flynn Vows Thursday, June 9

Miss Celeste Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Flynn, 1106 South Clay Ave., was united in marriage with William Lenth, Thursday morning at eight-thirty o'clock at the Church of Our Saviour. Mr. Lenth is the son of Doctor and Mrs. Vincent T. J. Lenth of 839 Grove Street.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Father Robert Morris before a large gathering of relatives and friends. Acolytes were Joseph Walker and Michael Walker.

Vases on the altar of the church held white gladioli. Ferns and palms completed the arrangements.

Preceding the ceremony and during the service a program of organ music was rendered by Mrs. Alta Elsch, who also played the processional, "Marche Romaine," Gounod, and recessional, "Nuptiale Joyeuse," Bossi.

Mr. Flynn escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She wore the traditional white wedding gown and veil. Her gown, fashioned of nylon net and lace over taffeta, was designed with a high neckline, long fitted sleeves and snug bodice. The skirt was made with full train. ACTOR GROWS FLOWERS

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)—Actor Will Geer has a double job, one of which he does as an avocation, in the American Festival Theater here this summer.

He will play the leading roles of Justice Shallow in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and Lord Lafeu in "All's Well That Ends Well." During his spare time he acts as chief gardner at the Festival, whose grounds sprawl over several acres of Connecticut lawn.

He is producing plants mentioned in Shakespearean plays, but is having difficulty translating the bard's floral nomenclature into modern terms.

"We know that gillyvors are pinks, but we can only guess that the pony banks of 'The Tempest' were banks of today's peonies," says Geer.

Unwittingly Helpful

As a spokesman for sanity in a shaky world, Soviet Premier Khrushchev did much to discredit himself in his Paris tirade. Now he has chosen to add to his demerits with another intemperate outburst.

He heaped fresh insult on President Eisenhower. Evidently Khrushchev is either oblivious or indifferent to the fact that his earlier excesses served only to arouse intense sympathy for the President around the world, not least in areas which otherwise might have been highly critical of him.

The effort to smash the President's world image by calling him irresponsible and dangerous is foredoomed to failure.

Whatever else some of our free world friends abroad may think of Eisenhower as a statesman and diplomat, they know him beyond question as a man of good will totally dedicated to the quest for peace.

He is also a man devoted to duty. Men can and do question his concept of his duty, his measure of the powers and responsibilities of his high office. They do not doubt that his motive is to serve the American people, and through them all free men.

Khrushchev's insults will only stir new sympathy for Eisenhower. They are unlikely to suggest to any human hungry for peace that Khrushchev is the man to assure it.

His violence and intemperance, whether calculated or not, make HIM the dangerous one, the one unfit to hold responsibility in a great nation.

The Soviet premier suggested Eisenhower might do well as "manager of a children's home where we are sure he could do no harm." Khrushchev is unfit even for that. The noise he makes would wake the children.

It has already awakened the free nations to the insincerity of his peace posture and the still potent menace of his unaltered design for world conquest.

We can only speculate on the internal and external pressures which lead Khrushchev to this course. We can be glad, however, that they exist.

This is only one of countless times when the compulsions inherent in communism have produced stupidities which have helped free men out of difficulty.

We dare not rely on these stupidities always to save us. But we are lucky they have occurred so often.

Welfare State Note—

There's a proposal in Congress to tax baby sitters for social security deductions. And protests from the kids, their parents, baby sitting agencies and people with babies who need sitting, have been recorded.

Chief complaint is that the bookkeeping involved to keep track of pennies would cost more than it's worth, as well as providing a big headache for all concerned.

That's the trouble with welfare-stateism—it's so hard to tell loopholes (where tax money is uncollected and lost) from rat holes (into which tax money can be poured and wasted).

Can't Seem to Hear a Word

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twice in a row, with no one in sight likely to take the Republican nomination away from him, Vice President Richard M. Nixon got jabbed with a red-hot needle. Both times he stayed quiet 24 hours.

Both times this happened to be just long enough to let the Republican leaders in Congress rush to his defense against the needlers — as they did — before he did any talking.

The first time it was Harold Stassen who jabbed him, just when Nixon seemed to have the Republican vice presidential nomination sewed up in 1956. Now it's New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, just when Nixon seems to have the presidential nomination cinched, although Rockefeller would like to get it.

Rockefeller said it was about time Nixon started saying precisely where he stands on the big issues. Nixon replied that he not only has talked on them but has been more precise than Rockefeller.

The fact is: Neither has been completely precise at all. Few seekers of political office ever are.

It was only July 23, just a few weeks before the 1956 Republican convention, that Stassen started his dump-Nixon campaign, arguing Nixon would lose the party votes. Stassen suggested Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts for the vice presidential nomination.

Republicans in Congress, with visions of Stassen splitting the party, rallied around Nixon. Herter didn't have a chance. In fact, he said he not only didn't want the nomination but would nominate Nixon himself.

Nixon came out of silence then. He didn't waste any time on Stassen. He just praised Herter. But he reacted far more energetically to Rockefeller.

Rockefeller, who got out of the Republican presidential race last December and jumped back in on Wednesday. The Republicans in Congress closed ranks around Nixon.

Then Nixon went to New Jersey Thursday and at a news conference said he had talked on the issues and had been more precise than Rockefeller. He challenged the governor to a "discussion in depth."

What follows is a run-down on the positions Rockefeller took on the issues in his Wednesday attack against Nixon and the vice presidents statements in the past on those same problems.

National Defense: Rockefeller says defense is not good enough, suggests spending 3½ billion dollars more right away. Nixon says defenses are just fine but this country must spend whatever it costs to retain its strength.

Foreign Policy: Rockefeller did not say much more than that we are losing ground nad must do something about it. Nixon doesn't concede any losses but he hasn't been any more specific than Rockefeller in this field.

Arms Control: everybody seems to be for this, including Rockefeller and Nixon.

National Economy: Rockefeller calls for tax changes to encourage investments. Nixon said Thursday he has urged tax revisions, too, and then some.

Farm Problems: Rockefeller is doing something about them. Nixon says he is, too, but he has indicated before he wouldn't have a new farm program of his own until after he gets the presidential nomination.

Labor: Rockefeller is for compulsory arbitration, if necessary, to end big, damaging strikes. Nixon is against compulsory control. But how he'd cope with such a problem isn't clear at all.

Civil Rights: Rockefeller says he was for racial equality but vague on how to achieve it. Nixon is for protecting civil rights but hasn't gone beyond the Eisenhower program, only part of which got accepted this year by Congress.

Federal Aid to Education: Rockefeller is for federal aid for school construction and for scholarships. Nixon is for federal aid to school construction.

Medical Help for the Aged: Rockefeller is for a medical program paid for through Social Security taxes. Nixon is against this way of paying the cost, but is of part of the cost of voluntary health insurance.

Both men have a long way to go before they spell out in complete detail just where they stand on the issues. Nixon, for instance, has said he will stand on the Eisenhower administration's record but he will build on it.

He also says he differs with the administration on some major policies but won't spell them out until after he is nominated.

Cling to Girlish Qualities, Hold Your Husband's Love

Mark Twain once paid his wife one of the finest compliments a man can pay a woman. After her death he said of her:

"She was slender and beautiful and girlish—and she was both girl and woman. She remained both girl and woman to the last day of her life."

It is the ability to be both girl and woman at the same time that enables a wife to keep a husband in love with her through the years.

And yet all too many wives lose the quality of girlishness as soon as they settle down to being homemakers, mothers and pillars of the community.

What are the qualities a man considers "girlish" and hopes his wife will never lose?

One is a sense of fun that brings forth laughter and gaiety and a happy-hearted attitude toward living. It's what keeps a woman from becoming grim.

Another "girlish" quality is enthusiasm—the ability to get excited over small pleasures. This kind of youthful enthusiasm not only brightens the world for the woman who has it but for her family as well.

Still another of the girlish qualities is the kind of femininity that enjoys leaning just a little on a man's strength and prevents a woman from ever feeling that she has to prove that she is just as smart as any man.

Another girlish quality is the desire to please—rather than to impress. Most women that we say are charming have this quality in abundance.

It is a shame for a woman to ever lose her girlishness—even if she lives to be a very old lady. For girlishness gives a woman sparkle, a warmth and gaiety that make men comfortable and happy in her presence.

You can see women of 80 who still have a girlish quality. And you can see women of 30 who have completely lost it. Girlishness isn't a matter of age—but of attitude.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Christian Way

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Sunday School lessons for a long time have not been confined to one source or series. Some churchmen, differing with what they considered too liberal an attitude, have issued a more conservative series of their own and special studies have long been in use by various church-school groups, which usually don't use the name "Sunday School."

Without any tangible evidence as to what lessons or studies are most commonly in use, I assume that the long-established "International Lessons" still lead, and I have been interested in the title of the lesson for June 12: "The Two Ways."

Without reference to the specific lesson treatment intended, the title has an international and specific application in a manner that could not very well have been anticipated.

In two ways, the summit collapse in Paris could hardly have offered more precise, if tragic, exemplification.

There are underlying and very real religious aspects that ought not to be ignored by all who have regard for moral and spiritual values.

If it were not so tragic and so dangerous, there would be something almost humorous and pathetic in a Khrushchev raising his hands to heaven and calling upon a God, in whom as an atheist he doesn't believe, to witness that his hands were free from espionage.

As everybody knows his spies have been active for years in the U.S.A. and in practically all countries.

The claim was as false as the appeal to a God in whom he didn't believe.

But there are deeper matters involved. Face-to-face with the two ways in a divided world, divisions so strong that eruption might wipe out the world as we know it, there is an increasing obligation upon all who name the name of Christ, and upon all who in other names share the same moral and spiritual ideals, to reassess the part they must play in the world crisis.

Above all it is the question confronting those who believe in right as against might, in freedom as against compulsion, and in spiritual beliefs as against materialistic and atheistic denials.

The forces of communism are so vast, especially as one considers the oncoming hordes of Communist China, that some Christians seem already to have lost heart, and show a readiness for compromise.

Recent cultural exchanges and conversations have not been in the spirit of compromise. They seem to have been conducted in good faith and with good manners.

On the other hand, though undoubtedly well-intentioned, the appeal of some churchmen a short time ago for the political recognition of Red China was far more questionable. It found an immediate reaction in the renunciation of the action by other churchmen and the formation of a protesting "Committee of a Million."

To recognize Red China at a time when fellow Christians are still under a persecution virtually annihilating seems rather to call for the most positive assertion of the Christian way.

Profoundly and above all, the religious need of the hour is that Christians, and all who share Christian ideals, should stick to their spiritual guns—which may in the end prove more powerful than actual guns.

It is a time to consider the Christian heritage and the Christian watchwords — when reviled to revile not against, to manifest the love of enemies that is not a compromise with righteousness, and to display to the world the advantages of the Christian way and of the democratic values, based on belief in God and the worth of man.

Those values are our greatest asset.

Better Grub on Subs; 'Balut' Is Palate Tickler?; Ah, for a Restricted Job; Humphrey's 'Consolation'

BY JERRY BENNET
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Nuclear submarines are likely to be the fanciest-fed fighters in the armed forces. Eight cooks from the submarine tender Proteus have just completed a hitch in the galleys of four of Washington's largest hotels. For two weeks they picked up tips from French chefs to pass on to cooks aboard atomic-powered subs.

This doesn't mean that sub crews are going to get elaborate six-course dinners, Navy officials explain. The idea is simply to improve the looks and taste of regular rations.

If Navy scales are correct the program is bound to succeed. All the Proteus cooks gained weight during their special assignment.

Pilar Lapus, wife of the Philippine embassy military attache and one of this town's prize cooks, introduced party-goers to a native delicacy called "balut." It's a fertile duck egg that contains a 14-day-old embryo. You crack the egg and then quickly gobble the insides.

Said one overweight lady after downing her first and last balut: "It's the first time I ever got a guilty conscience from eating just one hors d'oeuvre."

An Air Force officer has this hanging on his wall:

"Don't Get the Idea That I'm Inefficient. The secrecy of My Job Doesn't Permit Me to Know What I'm Doing."

At A Surprise birthday party for Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), someone mentioned that presidential contender John Kennedy's birthday was two days later.

Replied Humphrey:

"At least I'm ahead of him on one thing."

At His Birthday party Humphrey reminisced about the days when he ran a drug store in Huron, S. D., and worked behind the lunch counter.

"I was the only short order cook in town," he explained, "who could carve a ham to look like pieces of red tissue paper."

A Concoction of low calorie light rum and canned cola is the latest drink fad among dieting party-goers. They call it Gymnasium Punch.

While Crowning National Rose Queen Ginger Pailes, Sen. Scott (R-Pa.) cracked:

"I have been crowning rose queens for three years and I'm surprised each time to find that I never feel a day older. It's just that the girls always seem a year younger."

Two Guests at a business-man's luncheon were arguing over what to name a new stadium that has been proposed for Washington.

One man suggested naming it after ex-President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The other favored prominent local contractor Edward Carr.

"But the honor should go to a famous dead man," the first executive protested.

"You'd be surprised," his friend replied, "just how much Carr wants to be selected."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of television's brightest ornaments disappeared from the air this week, never to reappear.

It was the Steve Allen Show, the passing of which caused lament in many quarters. It was also a sad event for the Allen company, which gathered for a party at NBC Burbank after the show Monday night.

There wasn't much gaiety, although two or three of the comedians performed. Allen closed it with a speech in which he thanked his fellow workers and expressed hope that they would get together again.

Not much chance. The Allen show, unable to amass sizable ratings in the Monday night spot, was not renewed by the network. Allen himself expressed relief. He has spoken against the rigors of a weekly show, wants to spread himself less thinly in the future.

Allen and his wife, Jayne Meadows, will tour to publicize their film, "College Confidential." They may make another movie and he will probably do occasional TV in the fall.

Funnymen Louis Nye and Don Knotts will remain in California. There's talk of a TV series for the pair. Nye did a role in the Bob Hope-Lucille Ball move and will play "Charlie's Aunt" in Chicago.

Among the other stock company comics, Bill Dana will produce Spike Jones' summer TV show, Pat Harrington remains here to stay with the Danny Thomas Show Gabe Dell will return to New York for summer stock and Dayton Allen will stay in New York, from which he commuted for the Allen show.

Producer Bill Harbach and Director Dwight Hennion are also New York returnees. The latter will direct the Perry Como Show.

Admittedly, the product of the Allen show was uneven. But when the assembled comics got on a compatible theme and played with outrageous variations, the results could be as hilarious as anything the TV tube has produced.

The end of the Allen show was inevitable. It was impossible to come up with enough good comic ideas every week to maintain a high standard. But those who love to laugh can still bemoan that inevitability.

LEWIS DEBATES

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Joe E. Lewis has offers to star in four Broadway musicals being prepared for the fall season.

"The musical I like best is, I think, a honey," he explained. "But I don't think I am temperamentally suited for it. The story concerns a horse player who keeps winning at the tracks, and this winning streak breaks up his system of playing the horses. He always plays his horses to lose, but when he accidentally got a winner, it pays such long odds that he pays off his losses to break even with the bank.

"And, to me, a banker is strictly a man who will loan you money if you can prove you don't need it.

"So here, the horse player is winning money only for his banker. And that is strictly against my system."

"But, it sounds like a good musical and I'd like to play on Broadway again."

Millions Will Be Spent to Explore Problems of Aging

BY MARIE DAERR

If you have any doubts about the importance Uncle Sam attaches to the subject of aging, consider this figure—$12,443,368.

That is the sum the government's National Institutes of Health is expected to give this year to various research centers here and abroad.

The figure has risen from $7,757,111 in 1959, from $4,570,424 in 1958, from $1,304,091 in 1957.

The 1960 figure represents nearly 600 different projects, all fostered by NIH's Center for Aging Research.

On May 10 NIH announced a $186,000 grant to Western Reserve University at Cleveland, Ohio. This will finance the first year of a research project that will cost NIH more than two million dollars over a seven-year period.

Two other major projects are under way at Duke University, Durham, N.C., and at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, New York.

At Duke, nearly 20 separate studies are in progress. Last November the Duke center for the study of aging held its first annual conference on gerontology. The Einstein program uses a number of patients in the Nathan Van Etten Hospital.

Every 18 months, for 10 years, 250 men, the youngest, age 32, nearly all of them from the upper social and economic bracket, spend two days in Baltimore City Hospitals, undergoing tests.

The studies, under the gerontology branch of the National Heart Institutes, are tipping scientists to what growing old does, physically and psychologically. Research include comparisons with earlier studies on people not so prosperous or so "social."

In other programs, the branch co-operates with hospitals and Johns Hopkins Medical School in setting up a training program in geriatrics, the branch of medicine concerned with aging.

More than half of all cancers occur in people over 50. National Cancer Institute, aware of this situation, supports 19 projects that have a direct bearing on aging.

Fragile bones are a critical problem for many oldsters. A number of the 42 projects supported by the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases are concerned with this subject.

Others focus on hormone changes, the changes that come with menopause, the role of connective tissue in the aging progess.

Three-fourths of the loss of teeth suffered by people over 35 is due to gradual degeneration of the tissues which support the teeth. The National Institute of Dental Research finances several projects to determine why tissues deteriorate in middle-aged and old people. Other studies are on denture design and on calcium and fluoride changes in aging.

Still other research is concerned with problems of the three-generation household (National Institute of Mental Health) and cataracts, glaucoma, deafness and strokes (National Institue of Neurological Diseases and Blindness).

Green Onions Give Tender Touch to Raw Relish Tray

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Unless you are giving a kissing party, green onions make a welcome addition to your raw relish tray. Fresh from the garden, often called scallions, glistening clean, green and white, crisp yet tender, they add sprightly flavor to your appetizer course. Serve them together with raw carrot sticks, celery, red radishes, green and black olives—all low in calories but high in eating pleasure.

Finely sliced green onions, scattered over jellied madrilene, add lively taste. They are good sprinkled on cream of tomato soup and in cream cheese sandwiches. Here's another use for an appetizer. Mix softened cream cheese and red caviar (not expensive) lightly. Serve with crackers and a bowl of sliced green onions. Sprinkle onions on top of the cheese and caviar.

Spring Onions on Toast
(Yield: 6 servings)

Peel 5 to 6 bunches green onions, leaving on 2 inches of the green tops. Place, whole, in saucepan with ½-inch boiling water and ½ teaspoon salt. Cover and boil 1 to 2 minutes, lifting cover two or three times during cooking period. Drain. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in 1 tablespoon flour. Stir in 1½ cups milk and cook, stirring constantly, until medium thickness. Blend in 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon ground black pepper. Place cooked green onions on 6 slices toast over which pour cream sauce. Sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese.

New Potatoes With Green Onions
(Yield: 6 servings)

Wash and scrape 2 pounds small new potatoes. Place in a saucepan with ½ stick (4 tablespoons) butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons hot water, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper. Cover and cook over low heat until potatoes are tender when pierced with a pointed knife, 30 to 40 minutes. Add 1/3 cup chopped green onions and toss lightly. Serve hot.

Monday's Dinner: Fried ham steak, new potatoes with green onions, asparagus with mock Hollandaise sauce, seeded rolls, butter or margarine, fresh blueberry pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Illinois F.F.A. Elects Hillview Youth Secretary

Bryan Koontz of Hillview was elected secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Future Farmers of America association Thursday at the annual convention held at the fair grounds in Springfield. He is a member of the Roodhouse chapter.

Koontz is shown with his instructor, Ardell Kimmell, as he receives a congratulatory handshake from Gary Fisher, right, the outgoing secretary-treasurer.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Koontz, Bryan won the district Star Farmer award, has sung in the National FFA Chorus, and served as vice president of Section 15, which includes Morgan, Scott, Greene, Macoupin, Jersey and Calhoun counties. He was also the president of his senior class, competed in the state debate tournament and sang with the All-State Chorus.

Other officers elected were:

President: Lynn Laible of Toluca, a member of the Washburn FFA chapter.

Vice president: Dan Crumbaugh of LeRoy, McLean county.

Reporter: Ron Gehrig of Wyoming, Marshall county.

For 17-year-old Lynn Laible, the tension and excitement of the elections were too much. He fainted just prior to the final ballot and could not give his acceptance speech until a few hours later.

Lynn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Laible who farm in Marshall county. During Lynn's high school career, he has been class treasurer, vice president and president. He has also served as president of his FFA chapter for two years; reporter for one year; and director of District I.

At home, Lynn raises sheep, dairy cattle, hogs and poultry. He had planned to enter the University of Illinois this fall, but now will wait until after his one-year term as state president.

Dan Crumbaugh, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crumbaugh, helps his dad farm on their 500 acres. Dan raises Angus beef cattle as well as legume and other hay crops. In school, Dan was a member of the National Honor Society. He was also class vice president. He has twice served as secretary of his FFA chapter and has also been vice president of FFA Section 9. Dan had also planned to enter the U. of I. this fall. Instead, he will take courses on a limited basis at Illinois State Normal University.

Ron Gehrig, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gehrig, is a member of the Sparland FFA chapter. An upcoming high school senior, he has served as president of his chapter and as sectional and district reporter. He has also been a member of the high school student council.

Several of his FFA projects include dairy, swine and crops production.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

FARMLAND PRICES SHOW MIXED TRENDS

Farmland values in Illinois seem to have leveled off. According to a recent survey by the United States Department of Agriculture, average prices of Illinois farmland rose about 1 per cent in the spring of 1959 and then settled back the same amount during the fall and winter.

The U.S.D.A. figures are state averages, but there are important variations from these averages. For example, much of the 1 per cent decline reported since last summer may be due to a decrease in number of sales of central Illinois land at extremely high prices —$600 to $800 an acre. Such sales often involved 80 acres or other relatively small holdings to be added to neighboring farms.

Some reporters can see no change in prices for average-good farms, even in central Illinois. Reports from the northern and southern parts of the state generally show little or no price decline. Land values in southern Illinois are supported by rapidly rising yields and by comparatively favorable earnings-to-cost relationships. In northern Illinois land values receive support from rapidly expanding industrial and population centers.

Average Prices Up

Nation-wide, farmland values rose 1 per cent from November to March, according to the U.S.D.A. survey and report. Average prices were 3 per cent higher in March this year than a year ago. This 3 per cent increase was spread evenly over the entire 12 months.

Among the 48 states for which records are available, Illinois was alone in showing no increase in land values from March 1959 to March 1960. Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska showed a 1 per cent rise. Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and North Dakota reported a 2 per cent increase; and Iowa and Kansas, 3 per cent. In most of the other states—east, south and west—prices advanced 3 to 7 per cent in the 12 months ended with March.

Eastern, Western

Price changes during the latest reporting period—that is, November to March — differed significantly in the eastern and the western halves of the country. In most states in the western half, average prices rose 1 to 3 per cent. In the Great Plains and Pacific Coast states, increases averaged 2 to 3 per cent; and in the Rocky Mountain states, 1 per cent.

In the eastern half, prices ranged from 2 per cent down to 2 per cent up.

Three states — Minnesota, Missouri and Maine—reported 2 per cent decreases. Illinois, Iowa, Florida and North Carolina listed 1 per cent drops. Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and New York reported no change. Wisconsin, Kentucky and several southern and eastern states had 1 per cent increases. Three states in the eastern half of the nation, Arkansas, Georgia and Pennsylvania, reported increases in land values averaging 2 per cent in the four months ending with March.

BARGEMAN INJURES HEEL IN JUMP TO SHIP FROM LOCK

CARROLLTON—Donald Raker of Carrollton, who is employed on the Illini barge owned by the Illinois Farm Supply Company, suffered a heel fracture Tuesday morning when he fell as he jumped from the Alton lock on to the barge.

Raker was brought to Boyd Memorial hospital in this city for treatment and released after the heel had been placed in a cast.

For normal growth, Holstein heifers should make an average daily gain of 1.5 pounds; Brown Swiss, 1.4; Ayrshires, 1.3; Guernseys, 1.25; and Jerseys, 1.1.

After 1 Million Miles— Burl Hornbeck Retires

L. B. "Burl" Hornbeck—dean of the IAA fieldmen—retired June 1 after 31 years service and almost a million miles of traveling to promote Farm Bureau.

Gerald W. Hageman, Iroquois county Farm Bureau secretary of organization, will succeed Hornbeck in IAA Organization District II, a 16 county area west of the Illinois river and extending from Adams and Brown counties on the south, to Rock Island, Henry and Bureau counties on the north.

Shown in the picture are Charles S. Mayfield, IAA secretary of organization, the Hornbecks and their son, Richard B., Ottawa, LaSalle county agency manager for the Country Insurance companies.

Hornbeck, 65, Winchester, went to work for IAA as a membership solicitor in Rock Island county in 1929. In 1931 he became one of eight district managers of organization for the IAA, responsible for membership work in 12 counties. Three years later he was named assistant director of organization.

During the years with IAA, Hornbeck has worked in most counties in Illinois and has helped organize new Farm Bureaus and strengthened many others. His career also included some time spent working for the Illinois Wool Marketing and Grain Marketing Association.

Hornbeck has an optimistic outlook on agriculture, after his many years working with farm people.

"People everywhere are dependent on agriculture," he commented. "Our farmers must remember that they are important. They are becoming more aware that they need Farm Bureau to help them hold their rightful spot in today's world."

Hornbeck and his wife, Elizabeth, live on a farm 3½ miles north of Winchester in Scott county. They are the parents of a son, Richard, who lives with his wife, two daughters and a son in Ottawa; and a daughter, Joan, wife of Dr. Walter L. Frank, Jr., Jacksonville. The Franks have one son.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornbeck plan to devote much of their time to their hobby of collecting antiques and to his interest in harness racing.

Predict Increasing Surplus Wheat Crop

By OVID A. Martin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A surplus - increasing wheat crop of 1,271,000,000 bushels was forecast today by the Agriculture Department. The report told of weather setbacks in some other farm production fields.

A wheat crop of this size would be an eighth larger than last year and 16 per cent larger than average. It would add perhaps 200 million bushels or more to a reserve and surplus of 1,320,000,000 bushels already accumulated from past crops. Much of this grain is held by the government under farm price supports.

This production forecast came a day after the Senate passed a bill that would require wheat growers to cut acreages 20 per cent next year, if they want full price supports, in an effort to halt the piling up of unneeded supplies. The House has not yet acted on similar legislation.

An Illinois wheat crop of 53 million bushels is expected to be produced this year, the Illinois Crop Reporting Service said Friday. It would be nearly 11 million bushels above last year.

The department said a late spring, dominated by rains and cool weather, had delayed many crops, particularly the planting of corn and soybeans in the Midwest. Crop growth, it said, was slowed in the South.

However, crop prospects were described as mostly good to excellent in the northwest, northern and central Great Plains, central and eastern Great Lakes region and the mid-Atlantic and northeastern areas.

But they were said to be only fair in the southeast, which was plagued by cool, wet weather in the spring and light rainfall in May. A cool, wet spring in the upper Mississippi valley retarded planting operations and early vegetative growth, but a shift to more favorable weather could overcome some of the backwardness in this area, the department said.

The report said spring wheat was seeded late in the major producing areas, but stands were said to be generally good as ample moisture encouraged even germination.

The department said production of fruits now seems likely to fall below last spring. Latest forecasts indicate fewer apricots, pears and prunes. The apple crop is expected to be no larger than last year.

Illinois yielded an average of 32 bushels of wheat per acre and had production of 53,120,000 bushels.

For the nation, the late spring potato crop was indicated at 26,995,000 hundredweight compared with 23,558,000 last year and 24,501,000 for the average. The early summer potato crop was indicated at 14,461,000 hundredweight compared with 14,215,000 and 12,610,000 respectively.

Milk production in May was reported at 12,626,000,000 pounds compared with 11,313,000,000 in April, 12,536,000,000 in May last year and 12,500,000,000 for the ten-year May average.

Egg production in May was put at 5,674,000,000 compared with 5,508,000,000 in April, 5,760,000,000 in May last year and 5,593,000,000 for the ten-year May average.

The condition of the rye crop on June 1 was reported at 88 per cent of normal compared with 84 per cent a year earlier and 82 for the ten-year June 1 average.

The condition of the hay crop was put at 87 per cent of normal compared with 84 per cent a year ago and 84 for the average. Pasture conditions were put at 87 per cent, 87 and 84, respectively.

University of Illinois agronomists have released 3,600 bushels of the new Lindarin soybean for seed increase during 1960. More than 100 Illinois seed growers will work to make the new variety available to farmers by 1961. Lindarin results from a cross of Lincoln and Mandarin varieties.

POPULATION BOOSTER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oxford University Prof. Coling G. Clark, an economist and population expert, says population growth should be encouraged rather than feared. Clark, a Roman Catholic, told a meeting here that mounting populations have historically compelled progress and stimulated stagnant societies to greater achievement.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

For four years on the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station, minimum tillage (wheel-track planting) has produced corn yields as high as in conventional planting, if not higher. These results are encouraging not only because minimum tillage costs less, but also because in the hill section of southern Illinois the rough seedbed obtained by minimum tillage greatly reduces water and soil losses.

Minimum Tillage on Heavy Soil

Last year corn was planted in bottomland areas on one location following a heavy fescue sod, and on another following corn. Results from the plow plant system were not so good on the very heavy fescue sod as on the conventional seedbed. Yields were short about 13 bushels per acre —77 compared with 90 bushels. However, in the bottomland area where corn followed corn, yields for the two types of seedbed were almost the same—75 bushels for the plow-plant system and 72 bushels for the conventional seedbed.

Heavy Plant Populations

In this same experiment last year, three planting rates were used as follows: (1) 16,000 plants per acre in 40-inch rows, (2) 24,000 plants per acre in 40-inch rows, and (3) 24,000 plants in 20-inch rows. It was an extremely wet year, and corn in both locations was flooded.

Following fescue, corn planted at 16,000 plants per acre produced 81 bushels per acre. Corn planted in 40-inch rows, 24,000 plants per acre, produced the same yield. The corn planted in 20-inch rows, 24,000 plants per acre, produced 83 bushels per acre. Following corn, the 16,000 plants per acre produced 75 bushels as against 73 bushels for the heavier populations. There was really no advantage for the heavier population; in fact, there was a disadvantage for the close rows be cause more of the corn was down at harvest time.

Simazine and Sidedressed Nitrogen

Some of the corn in this experiment was produced with no cultivation. Simazine broadcast as a pre-emergence herbicide did the job, producing yields as high as those where cultivation was used to control weeds.

One hundred pounds of nitrogen sidedressed produced nearly as much corn as did 167 pounds of nitrogen plowed down.

Advises Farmers: Cut Alfalfa On Schedule

URBANA—A University of Illinois agronomist suggests that farmers shoot for three cuttings of alfalfa in northern and central Illinois and four cuttings in the southern part of the state.

D. W. Graffis gives these guide lines to use in setting up a cutting schedule. Simply mark the dates of the first and last cuttings on the calendar; then space the middle cutting or cuttings equally between them.

Alfalfa maturity, one-tenth bloom, should guide (or have guided) the first cutting. As for the last cutting, farmers should plan on Sept. 1 in northern Illinois and around Sept. 15 in central Illinois. Though there's not much solid data on southern Illinois conditions, Graffis would put the final cutting date there at about Sept. 30.

He doesn't suggest swearing by the calendar in cutting hay — these are simply guide lines. In any case, the things to consider are cutting at one-tenth bloom for maximum quality, getting as many cuttings as possible for maximum yield and timing the last cutting so that alfalfa has time to regain strength to overwinter.

DuPuits is singled out as a variety that could probably stand four cuttings in most parts of the state. It's an early, fast-growing sort and tends to be stemmy at three cuttings a year. Then, too, it's wilt-susceptible and thus is good only for short-term stands, so you might as well make the most of it.

Large Capital Needs To Force Borrowing

Farm operators in the future will have to borrow more money to provide needed operating capital, a economist reports.

F. J. Reiss cites the figure to show that many Illinois farm operators' earnings are no longer large enough to meet living needs, pay income and social security taxes and leave enough money to accumulate the necessary operating capital.

Analysis of 1959 Illinois farm business records shows that one-man tenant-operated grain farms required operating capital of nearly $15,000. Livestock farm operators had over $21,000 invested in livestock, feed, grain, machinery, equipment and other improvements.

Traditionally, farmers have built up this investment through savings and inheritance. But Reiss believes that in the future many farmers, especially young operators, will have to depend more on creditors for this needed operating capital.

To provide this type of credit, lenders are now making intermediate-term loans of two to three years. With present earnings on many Illinois farms, operators may expect to have some intermediate debt almost continuously, Reiss believes.

This change in the farm financial picture is really part of a longer trend, the economist points out. The farm tenancy system is really an earlier stage of this same process. When the farm operator could no longer afford to buy all the land he wanted to farm, he rented it from landowners. The farmer today often can not afford to own all of the capital equipment to operate his farm. So he is "renting" this capital in the form of credit.

Face flies that bombarded Illinois livestock for the first time last summer are gathering strength for a return invasion this summer.

Run-down cows may need as much as eight to ten pounds of grain a day plus all the roughage they can eat during the dry period.

Jersey County Home Adviser To Start Duties

JERSEYVILLE—Mrs. Catherine Newmann of Carthage, Mo. has been employed as Home Adviser of Jersey county and will begin her duties here on July 1. She has just received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Ozark Wesleyan College in Carthage, Mo. where she has studied the past year.

The new Home Adviser is the widow of a Lutheran minister and had completed three years of college work before her marriage. Upon the death of her husband she resumed her studies at the university. She is the mother of several children all of whom are married. Mrs. Newmann will reside in an apartment at the Steelman home on Andrews avenue.

Jersey County Home Bureau organization has been operating without the services of a Home Adviser since September when Mrs. James Palen, who was formerly Miss Shirley Dannenmueller, left to reside in Alton.

The work has been carried on by the Home Bureau Extension Council and office secretary and the functions of the group have continued to operate most successfully.

THE BERLIN TOUCH

NEW YORK (AP)— It was Irving Berlin's idea to build The Music Box, one of the most famous theaters on Broadway. And Berlin chose the name.

For it he wrote several of the successful "Music Box Revues," the first one in 1921 including five stars.

For the four editions of "The Music Box Revue," Berlin composed such of his lyrical hits as "What'll I Do?" and "Climbing Up the Scale."

So popular was Berlin in The Pan Alley that he persuaded for the first time Metropolitan Opera stars John McCormack and Frances Alda to sing on the radio. That was in 1925. McCormack sang Berlin's "All Alone" and Mme. Alda sang his "What'll I Do?"

Puppies Must Learn

By D. W. Hendrickson

Part 1: Puppy In Trouble

"Girls, especially sisters, are always yelling about a little bug or some other silly nothing," thought Bud as he heard Linda shriek upstairs. But just the same he started up to be sure she hadn't hurt herself.

The yelling changed to scolding.

"You awful dog! Just look what you have done!"

"Don't yell at Mike. He's only a puppy, and you'll scare him," called Bud, running the rest of the way upstairs and into Linda's room.

"Well, if he doesn't like to be yelled at he'd better behave," said Linda. "Just look what he's done to the springs on my doll bed!"

"I guess he's too heavy for them," admitted Bud as he looked at the springs sagging to the floor under the weight of the puppy's plump body. Mike lay with his round head pressed flat on his small paws, his ears drooping and his big brown eyes full of worry.

Puppy Looks Scared

"Poor Mike, you look scared," said Bub. Then he turned to Linda. "I still say you shouldn't yell at him. He's only a puppy, and puppies have to learn. How would you feel if Mom yelled at us whenever we make a mistake?"

"I guess you're right, Bud," agreed Linda, then turning back to the pup, "Mike, baby, I'm sor - - - . Why, he slipped away when we weren't looking!"

"I wonder where he went," said Bud.

More Trouble!

As if in answer, there came the sound of a crash in the downstairs hall.

Linda raced down the steps with Bud right behind her. There in the hall was Mike struggling to get out from under an overturned doll buggy.

"Poor Mike boy, looks like you need a little help."

Bud freed Mike by setting the buggy on its wheels again.

"Poor Betty, are you all right?" Linda crooned as she picked up her sprawling doll. She looked it over carefully and put it gently back in the carriage. "It's lucky for you, Mike, that Betty is all right. Now, don't you touch my doll again."

"He wouldn't have bothered her if you hadn't hidden cookies in her buggy," Bud pointed to Mike who was making a fast job of clearing up the broken cookie from the floor. "Besides he's only a puppy, and puppies have to learn."

LET'S GO BIRDING—

Tree Sparrow Poses For Photo

By Emma Mae Leonhard

We have another interesting story to give you this morning about the European Tree Sparrow. We had had an engagement since April to show the Nearings of Decatur our famous localized bird. They were very eager to take pictures of it.

We were somewhat skeptical about the picture taking, but we were fairly certain that we could find the bird even if, during the nesting time, these sparrows are so scattered that they aren't easily found.

In confident spirits, our party set out on its search. However, our spirits began to wane as we visited our favorite and most auspicious spots around Lake Mauvaisterre and in Nichols Park.

No European Tree Sparrow would accomodate us. We did prove that we had such a bird in the Jacksonville area by sighting one in a tall tree near the entrance to the Park, but it wouldn't come down for picture taking.

Then luckily one of our party suggested that we try the MacMurray Cabin territory. Being ready to try any spot, we snatched up the suggestion. At first we wandered down near the lake side. Soon we heard the characteristic hoarse "teck, teck" of the European Tree Sparrow.

Two sparrows flew into the willows near the water. Their chestnut brown cap and the black spot on their grayish white cheeks marked them as the European Tree Sparrow

Cleverly Hidden

Immediately three more joined the two, but they weren't so distinctly marked. We decided that they were immature birds. All five of them so cleverly hid among the leaves that they were hard to photograph, but two snaps were taken of them.

We then wandered back up the slope and soon discovered parent birds feeding their young in the grass under the line of trees west of the cabin. This time they were pretty well camouflaged in the grass, but more pictures were taken of them.

The noon whistle sounded. We decided to eat our lunch in the cool pleasant spot and watch for more and better opportunities for further photographing of them.

As we were munching our sandwiches, we heard that same hoarse "teck, teck" inside the picnic shelter. There it sat on a beam right before our eyes. Then it flew to a lone small tree near the shelter.

Patience Pays Off

As Mr. Nearing snapped pictures of it, we examined the place where it had sat on the beam. Just under the edge of the roof, we found discarded nesting material on the floor. It wasn't long until the bird flew back to the beam, and then it revealed its well-hidden nest as it slipped to the top of one of the three-inch pipes and disappeared in it, with only the tip of its tail protruding. Then it began its game of going back and fourth from the tree to the nest.

Its mate joined it, and many pictures were snapped of the two European Tree Sparrows as they unconsciously posed for the photographer. Patience had paid off.

CQ RADIO HAMS—

Good Antenna Is Real MUST

By JOSEPH A. SMITH

Almost any old timer amateur will probably agree that perhaps the most important single part of any amateur station is a good, efficient, high, and in the clear (as much as possible) antenna. That is, if you want to get out.

So extra time and effort spent in building and putting up a really good antenna will more than pay off with many QSOs and pleasing signal reports.

Therefore, the first six or so pages of the A.R.R.L. Handbook chapter on "ANTENNAS" is MUST READ materal for every serious would be ham.

Among the things that we will learn are these facts. That an alternating wave rises from a zero amplitude to a maximum positive, falls off to zero again, drops further down to a maximum negative then rises back to zero again; such is any A.C. CYCLE.

We will also learn that as current flows through our antenna flat top wire, a magnetic field is built up around the antenna wire and its strength is proportional to the amount of current flowing through it. During the upswing of the A.C. cycle more energy is stored in this field around the antenna wire. During the negative down swing of the cycle the field's energy tends to change to electrical energy which tries to sustain the field.

Thus the field build up and partially collapse, and at our higher ham band frequencies these fields build up faster than they can break down. Thus, part of the energy is driven off into space. Now our antenna is radiating part of its energy.

Absorption Meter

We also will learn that if we will place an absorption meter next to a radiating half wave dipole, we will discover that current and radiation is at a maximum at the center of a half wave dipole and at a minimum at either end. Voltage, on the other hand, is maximum at either end, and at a minimum at the center.

We will also learn that the angle of radiation is at right angles to the direction of the wire. That is, if our center-fed half-wave dipole antenna (for example) is put up running north and south, the antenna will radiate at maximum in a East and Westerly direction.

A broadband type of antenna can be cut for the center of a lower frequency amateur band (say 80 meters), and, providing tuned feeders are used, it can be adjusted to load up on the higher harmonically related amateur bands—40, 20, and 10 meters. An example of this would have a 135 foot overall flat-top, and a 77½ foot length of feeders spaced 6 inches apart.

Of course an antenna tuner would have to be used. See A.R.R.L. Handbook for more information about these ALL-BAND ANTENNAS, their tuned feeders, and antenna tuners.

One Band Antenna

Antennas using untuned feeders are essentially a one band antenna. The one major exception to this rule is the 66 foot long 40 meter center-fed half-wave dipole which will load up on its third harmonic (15 meters) as well.

The further you move from the cut resonant frequency of such an untuned antenna the greater the standing waves on the feeders, the greater the losses, and, naturally, the antenna loading falls off. Likewise, increased standing waves means more T.V.I. and B.C.I.; so it is always wise to stay fairly close to the cut resonant frequency with such an antenna.

These are very effective one band antennas, however, and will work out fine business at a minimum of initial investment of cash. They will not (usually) radiate troublesome higher harmonics.

To calculate the length of a half-wave antenna of wire you can consult the A.R.R.L. Handbook graph or use the formula Length (in feet) equals 468/Frsq. (MCs.) Using the above simple formula we would fine that a half-wave antenna for 7.15 Mcs would be 65.45 feet long. Of course, this is assuming that the antenna were in free space, so that in your own particular locality is may actually have to be a bit longer or shorter.

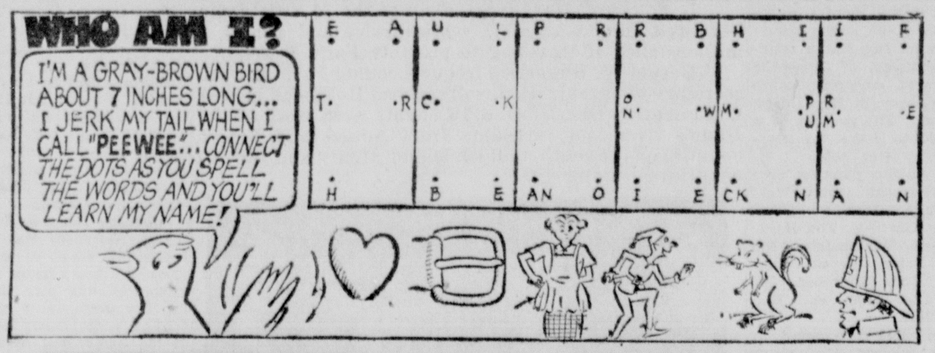
For untuned feeders you can use RG59/U coax line, 72 ohm kilowatt twinlead line, or (with under 200 watts input) 72 ohm receiving type twinlead.

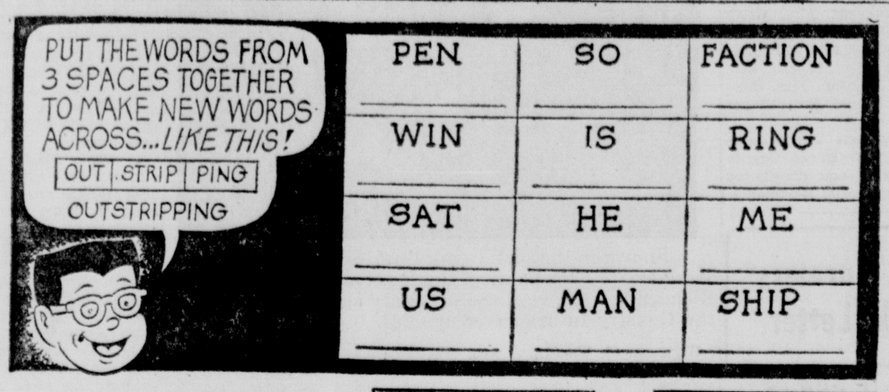
Harmonic radiating antennas can also be made with trap coils, or as offcenter fed "Windom" dipoles. CAUTION! If you use these, take care to keep the transmitter and antenna tuner properly adjuster, and watch that second harmonic when operating on the 75 meter phone band!

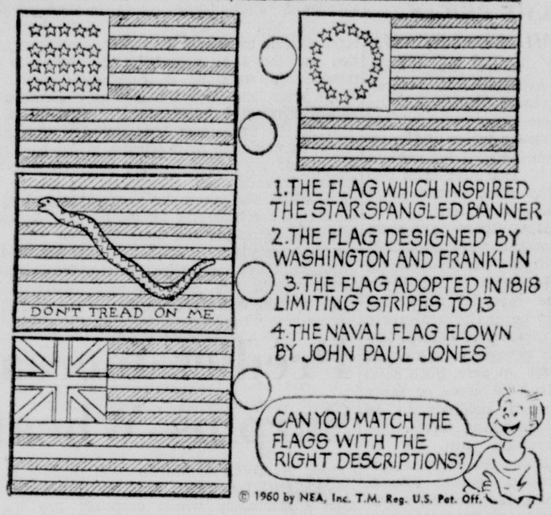
Remember, get that antenna up high, in the clear if possible, and be sure that the feeder lines match the flat-top for minimum standing waves.

The Wildfowl Sanctuary in Ontario, Canada, stamps birdbands with passages from the Bible. Eskimos, who have found bands on birds killed for food, travel many miles to the nearest mission post to have "God's message" translated.

Austria, Switzerland and West Germany are developing upper stretches of the Rhine River to increase shipping from land locked central Europe to the open seas.







ROCKETS AND SPACE—

Space Cabin On Earth

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

(Air Force Photo)

The two-man space cabin simulator at the school of Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base, Texas, is as far advanced over the base's original one-man space cabin simulator as a modern plane is over the biplanes of World War I.

Yet these simulators are only ground bound space cabins which copy as many of the conditions men will meet in space as possible without getting off the ground.

The two-man simulator was delivered to the School of Aviation Medicine's Department of Space Medicine on Oct. 12, 1959. It was then installed in the basement of the Research Institute building at Brooks AFB. The two-man simulator is now less than five yards from the base's original one-man simulator in which A/1C Donald G. Ferrell made his historic simulated moon flight in 1958.

The School of Aviation Medicine was moved to Brooks AFB from Randolph AFB in July, 1958. At Brooks it forms the center of USAF Aerospace Medical Center (ATC) which was established there under the command of Maj. Gen. Otis O. Benson, Jr., on Oct. 1, 1959.

Dr. Robert T. Clark, Chief of the Department of Space Medicine, said of the space simulator cabins: "The first cabin was a crude one but was far ahead of its time. Our scientists modified and added to it over the years, learning from it and gathering important data from it.

"The new simulator is a highly sophisticated (advanced), complex tool incorporating requirements and equipment developed or suggested by our scientists. While the first cabin has served us well, and will continue to do so, we expect even greater things from our new cabin."

Vacation Time Fun

Part 4: Grandma's Meals

Tommy is visiting his Grandparents on the farm, and he especially enjoys his Grandma's cooking.

She always cooked vegetables in a little black pot, and because I feel sure few, if any, of you children have ever seen the little black pots of yesterday, I'm going to tell you about Grandma's favorite cooking utensil.

It was an iron pot, and actually it wasn't little at all. Most of them held a gallon and a half, and some two. Grandma's certainly wasn't small.

The pots were closely akin to the old iron skillets which still are in many modern kitchens, refusing to be replaced by fancy frying pans of today. The pots, however, wouldn't work too well on some of our cook stoves now.

They had rounded bottoms and three short sturdy legs that fit into the holes of old fashioned wood ranges when the top lids were removed. They bubbled quickly when placed next to the hot blaze, held the heat well, and cooked foods thoroughly.

Although no one talked of vitamins in Grandma's youth, she told Tommy, when he mentioned the little vitamin pills, folk take now, that she was sure "The little black pot saved most of them, for folk did pretty well who partook of pot liquor and plenty of good foods, just as Mother Nature sent them in her day."

Said Gran, "I still think she's doing it, Tommy, and folk don't need much extra if they eat right."

Tommy knew Gran was right, but he knew some who tried to build bodies on pop, hot dogs, and sweets, and so maybe at times, the little pills did fit into the picture, though he was really on Gran's side.

Favorite Task

There was one task that Tommy liked best of all on the farm; he loved to feed Polkadot, the pretty Holstein heifer Grandpa was raising on the bucket. This bucket had a rubber nipple, and Polkadot seemed to think she was pulling her good mother's teats for her breakfast; anyway she was satisfied.

Se would stick out her long tongue and cradle the rubber nipple. She never let go until she had sucked the last drop of warm skimmed milk. (You see Grandpa shipped cream, so the milk was separated and Polkadot used the remainder after the cream was taken out. This way, none was wasted.)

The calf was the dearest pet, and she always ran to meet Tommy when he called her, and my, was she hungry! She would look up at Tommy with her big, gentle eyes as if to say, "Thank you, my little friend." So it's no wonder he loved her!

How To Make A Balsa Kite

By Joseph A. Smith

Part 2: Finishing Up

Fourth: measure in along this line exactly 4½ inches and mark with a pencil. Now with pencil and string (with one end of string held on this pencil center point) carefully draw a 4½ inch in radius half circle. The outer edges of the half circle should come to the outer edges of the three joined pieces of wood.

Fifth: From these points of edge intersection, measure down along the sides 11½ inches; again mark with a pencil these points and draw in a light pencil line between the points across the wood pieces.

Sixth: measure in along this bottom line inward 4½ inches and mark. Now connect with a light pencil line this center mark at the bottom to either side at the junction of the half circle with the sides.

Seventh: carefully cut out the kite, glue a small strip across one side at the widest point as a support or reinforcement. A heavy type piece of 1/4 inch square strip will do or something similar, and allow to dry well.

Last: afix (with glue) the kite line pylon as shown in diagram above.

The face of the kite can be decorated as you wish just before the pylon is attached. The tail can be made from pieces of old handkerchief and individual sections of the teil can be fastened together by thread or be simply tied together. A pin can be pushed into the top of the pylon and from 200 to 300 feet of kite line can be used.

Simple isn't it? It should be possible to make two kites out of the three pieces of wood glued together edge-to-edge.

Oh, I almost forgot to mention that a small diamond shape piece of wood is cut out of the 1/16" wood and glued to the bottom of the kite to which the tail is affixed. It is piece 3 in the diagram shown last week.

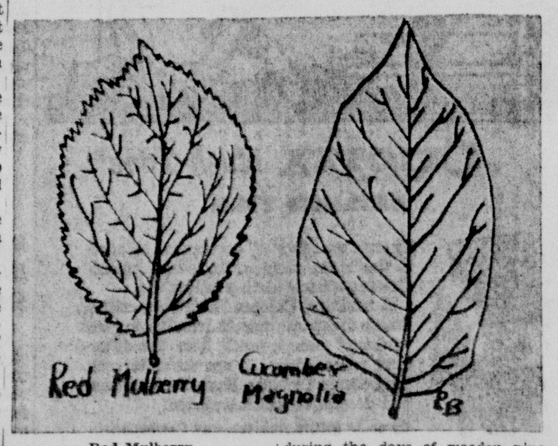
Wonder World —

For Bird Visitors

By Rip Barnsdall



Red Mulberry

The red mulberry is a valuable tree to have around if you are fond of birds. The fruit of the mulberry is eagerly eaten by bird visitors.

During the days of the Indians, the fibrous bark was woven into cloth by various southern tribes. The wood is quite durable, and during the days of wooden pins, was often used for making "tree nails."

Cucumber Magnolia

The cucumber magnolia reaches a height of 80 to 90 feet. Its large leaves and pleasing form make it a popular ornamental tree.

The immature fruit of this tree looks something like a cucumber; hence the name

COMMUNION CHANGE

The distribution of the sacrament must be in connection with some other religious service, however, if mass is not said.

BISHOP LIKES BOOKS

Opening lead—♦ 9

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Just look at the North and South hands and see how you would play at six clubs.

The nine of diamonds is opened and it looks like a short suit lead. You win in your hand and lead the ace of trumps. You would have liked to try the trump finesse, but you can't afford to use up one of the entries to dummy right away.

East shows out and things look bad indeed. West is sitting in back of you with two potential trump tricks and you will have to work out a right smart end play if you are to make your contract.

Jorge Cardenas of New York, who was declarer, did manage that end play. He risked going down several tricks, but what are a few tricks or so when you are trying for a vulnerable slam.

Jorge decided first of all that West was really short in diamonds, but that he could not make the hand if West held no more diamonds. Hence he decided to play him for one more. Then if West held three spades to the queen and three hearts Jorge could handle his case. So Jorge cashed the aces of hearts and spades; led a spade toward dummy and finessed the jack; discarded his low heart on the king of spades; trumped a heart; got back to dummy with the king of diamonds; trumped the third heart and when West had to follow everything was "hunky dory."

He simply led out the jack of clubs and let West suffer.

With The Girl Scouts

Visitors are welcome at Camp Shagbark any day during the week and any Wednesday or Thursday evening during the four weeks in June when the Girl Scout camping season is on. One exception is that there will not be any overnight camping this week only but day camp will be held as usual. Anyone wishing to visit the camp at any time will find a hearty welcome from the campers. Drive out to see the beautiful camp site and sample the girls' cooking which is done over campfires.

The second week of camping begins Monday morning, June 13, and all drivers who will be making trips during the week are asked to meet as usual at the south side of Grace Methodist church to see about transportation arrangements for the week. In this way it will be possible to check the number of cars and see that everyone has a way out. It may not be necessary to stop at Grace Church after Monday morning. Anyone needing transportation, please be at the church at 8:15 a.m. Drivers will leave at 8:30.

Registration for the second week of camping numbers 108 girls with 58 of these girls coming from Roodhouse for a three-day Day Camp session only. All units will consist of Brownies with the exception of one Intermediate unit from Roodhouse which will participate in Day Camping only.

Mrs. Donald Slocum will be the shopper for the week and leaders and helpers who will assist the camp director, Mrs. Perk Chumley, are as follows: Mrs. W. C. Everett, Mrs. Marion Schell for Unit 1; Mrs. Howard Bowe, Mrs. Delbert Hayes, Mrs. June Knepler, Mrs. J. D. Robinson, Mrs. Marilyn Cannon and Mrs. John Keehner for Unit 2.

Mrs. Fred Splain and Mrs. Paul J. Magner, Unit 3; Mrs. Darwin Ronat and Mrs. Tom Poor, Unit 4; Mrs. Robert Beard and Mrs. H. Dean Smith, Unit 5.

For the Roodhouse units: Mrs. George Duncan, Mrs. Laura Ellen Whewell and Mrs. Alice Coons, Unit 6; Mrs. Lillian H. Colwell, Unit 7; Mrs. Ruth Galloway and Mrs. Rachael Grey, Unit 9; and Mrs. John Pullings and Mrs. Pauline Dirksmeyer, Unit 8. Unit 9 is the Intermediate unit, all others are Brownies.

All reports from camp last week indicated a hilarious time is going on with lots of Indian lore and crafts adding to the atmosphere.

Budget Meeting

Members of the Finance Committee of the Board of Directors will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Scout office for an important budget-planning session.

On Wednesday morning, June 15, at 9:30 o'clock the Board of Directors of Illinois Prairie Council will hold a business meeting at the Scout office. Approval of the 1961 budget is an important item of business to be transacted.

Carrollton Camp

Girl Scout and Brownie Scout Camp opened Tuesday, June 1, for a three-day session at Camp Robin Hood Country Club at Carrollton. There were 107 girls attending, 16 from Greenfield and 91 from Carrollton.

Each troop in turn conducted the flag ceremony at the beginning and closing of each day. After instructions concerning the day's activities were given, each unit set up camp. Hikes, games, crafts, singing and dancing made up the day's activities. A cook-out meal was prepared by the girls—Buffalo burgers, Indian corn stew and hay stacks were the main dishes in keeping with the Indian theme for camp.

Crafts included blue printing, pottery and Indian costumes. The last day each unit prepared and performed an Indian skit which was enjoyed immensely.

Leaders and helpers were Mrs. Bud Roth and Mrs. Jake Shelton, co-directors; Mrs. Byron I. Rhodes, Mrs. Maxine Grizzle, Mrs. Donald Allen, Mrs. Robert Green, Mrs. Robert Pitsch, Mrs. Glen Diehl, Mrs. William White, Mrs. Mike Kane, Mrs. Vincent Tapen, Miss Mary Beth Roth.

Mrs. Allen Fields served as camp nurse as well as a unit leader. Mrs. Herbert Hartman, Mrs. Joe Pranger, Jr., Mrs. Robert Roth, Mrs. Bud Hardaway, Mrs. Leon Wagenblast, Mrs. Lawrence Thien, Mrs. Orville Lovekamp and Mrs. A. J. Siemer.

Mrs. Eugene Steinacher and Mrs. A. J. Hanson were food sorters. Mrs. Vincent Moulton was the shopper.

Mrs. Bernice Love was a leader from Greenfield.

Camp directors expressed their appreciation to all who assisted them in making Camp Robin Hood a very successful Girl Scout camp this year.

Troop Activities

Brownie Troop No. 96 of Jefferson school enjoyed a hamburger fry this past week at the home of the troop leader, Mrs. Darwin Ronat. Mrs. Tom Poor, assistant leader, was also present. Mrs. Melba Reeve came later. All members of the troop were present and there were several guests. The troop is still meeting regularly and the girls are now working on gifts for their fathers. They will all go to Camp Shagbark for the second week, June 13-17, and they are planning another outing at Nichols Park after their camping week.

This week we would like to introduce the three Brownie Scout troops at South Jacksonville school. There are 52 Brownies enrolled in the three troops and all of them have been very active this year.

Troop No. 23 is composed of 13 girls who will be 5th graders next year and so they are getting ready to become Intermediate Girl Scouts. Mrs. Robert Harp has been the leader for the troop since it was organized two years ago, when the girls were third graders. Mrs. William E. Smith has been the assistant leader during that time and lately has taken over the troop since Mrs. Harp is working. Mrs. Harp resides at 1617 Lakeview Terrace and Mrs. Smith at 1634 Hardin.

Members of the troop committee this year are Mrs. Vincent Penza, 407 West Greenwood; Mrs. Charles Burger, 8 Elliott Drive and Mrs. Ben Lampitt, 21 Havendale.

This troop has made contributions from the troop funds to the cancer drive and to the polio fund when those drives were being made this year as their noteworthy community service.

During the year they have made numerous craft items and enjoyed a trip through the Hertzberg New Method Book Bindery on Vandalia street.

About half the troop members will be going to camp for the third week session at Camp Shagbark on Lake Jacksonville. Mrs. Charles Burger will be a driver that week and Mrs. Tom Skiles a unit leader.

Troop No. 64

Troop No. 64 has also been organized two years and Mrs. Howard Carter of Rural Route 2 has been the leader up until January of this year when Mrs. Joan Smith, 1457 South West street, who had been assistant leader, took over the leadership of the troop with Mrs. Carter assisting her. Mrs. Smith will lead the troop next year also. Mrs. LeRoy Hedrick, 1607 Lakeview Terrace, has been assistant leader this year, also, but will not be able to continue with the troop.

Members of the troop committee are Mrs. Louise Rexroat, 339 Laurel Drive; Mrs. Ruby Orten, 301 Laurel Drive, and Mrs. Ruth Browning, Rural Route 5.

There are 15 girls in the troop at present and they will all be in the 4th grade next year. These girls have concentrated on making tray favors and gift items this year and have done some fine work. Three times during the year they made favors for Passavant hospital in addition to special Mother's Day gifts and Christmas gifts.

Two trips highlighted the year's activities, one to the Book Bindery on Morton avenue and one to Mrs. Tucker's plant. Besides the leader and assistant leaders, Mrs. Wesley Slaid and Mrs. Edward Anderson accompanied the girls on one trip or the other.

To climax the year's activities a big family picnic was held in May at Nichols Park with parents of every girl in the troop attending. There were about 75 persons at the potluck supper. Because of stormy weather the supper was held in a dining pavilion and the program that had been planned was omitted.

Mrs. Smith has already made some plans for the next year for the troop so we are expecting to hear about a lot of activities in this troop next year.

Troop No. 47

Troop No. 47 is the newest troop at South Jacksonville school. Twenty-two 2nd grade Brownies were registered in March of this year and a new member has been added already so there are 23 girls in this troop.

Mrs. Robert Patterson, 950 West Michigan, is the up and coming leader of this active bunch and she has two able helpers in Mrs. Ed Hewitt, 1635 Lakeview Terrace, and Mrs. J. O. Pinkerton, 223 East Michigan. In fact, they consider themselves co-leaders. These three ladies were out at Camp Shagbark last week every day for Brownie Day Camp and they had 21 of their girls with them. This is quite a record, especially for new leaders of eight year old girls. This speaks for itself of the troop's activities and the leaders' vim and vitality as well as their ability as Brownie leaders. You will be hearing a lot more from this troop. Our very best wishes go to them as they begin a long adventure in Girl Scouting.

Members of the troop committee for Troop No. 47 are Mrs. John DuBois, 203 West Greenwood; Mrs. Bill Fanning, 200 East Vandalia; Mrs. Ralph Evans, 190 East Greenwood; Mrs. Verne Jarrett, 13 Havendale Ct.; and Mrs. George Wallace, 5 Ogden Road.

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

From all reports, the nation's highways will be humming this summer as warm weather stirs the gypsy blood of travel-minded Americans. But keep your eyes on the road. Traffic surveys show that the attractive wife of a farmer working outside her home near the highway is just as much of a traffic hazard as a billboard. Anything that coaxes your eyes off the roadway can be an invitation to catastrophe. The important thing is to use your eyes with common sense. Looking both ways at an intersection is good thinking, but looking back for a second or third glance at a passing fancy is simply asking for trouble. Drivers who keep their eyes on the road may miss a little of the scenery that way . . . but they will get where they're going.

In this modern age, an "old-timer or young modern, what member when you built your garage on top of your house and called it an "attic." That's why all our used cars are gone over from bumper to bumper to assure you of full value for your money. See them soon. E. W. BROWN, 406 South Main. Phone 5-4333.

Potatoes and cabbage are both nutritious foods to use—especially when the budget has to be watched. Creamed potatoes with a small amount of diced leftover cooked ham will make an economical main dish. Shredded crisp green cabbage will stretch tuna for sandwiches.

Ever prepare doughnuts with yeast? You'll find they have an open light texture different from the regular baking powder variety.

Starlings, Sparrows Threaten Woodpeckers' Future Existence

I am trying to make a bird haven for our native birds on the farm 8½ miles southwest of Sumner, Illinois, but the aggressive English Starlings, and English Sparrows are my big worry. The former is worse than the latter to take over all the nesting places of our native woodpeckers, so that, in the last ten years, I have not seen one of our native woodpeckers able to hatch young birds from their eggs. In fact I have not seen, in this area, one red headed woodpecker for 20 years. They are practically extinct here now. Woodpeckers have a chisellike bill which they use in drilling into the hardest dead wood for a nest.

Last fall a pair of red-bellied woodpeckers spent two months drilling a hole for a nest in a large maple tree west of the house; this spring at nesting time, a pair of English starlings took possession. Then the woodpeckers moved farther down on the huge trunk limb where they began to drill for another nest. Then, as soon as the job was completed, another pair of starlings moved into that hole which they used for a nest. Our native woodpeckers are simply not able to nest because of the starlings.

The English starlings and English Sparrows are not native birds. When they go into a woodpecker's nest an unnatural condition is created. None of our native birds do that, and they never did do that, so the woodpeckers leave; therefore, they cannot multiply by bringing up their young. The inevitable result is extinction of our beautiful woodpeckers by a foreign bird that is the greatest pest ever introduced into the United States. I estimate that one pair of those starlings will mean 100 by the time that the nesting season is over each year. The female lays 5 eggs. When these eggs are hatched, both male and female are busy all day making trips for food; when the young are half grown, the female lays 5 more eggs so that the growing young starlings incubate those eggs. Most of our native birds nest only one time each year.

In 1890, just 70 years ago, 80 starlings were brought over here to the U.S. from England, and liberated in Central Park, New York City; then 40 more were brought over here and turned loose the following year. From that start of 120 we have hundreds of millions of these pests. Where do we go from here? Perhaps the best way to stop their increase in numbers is to destroy their nests, and, I think, marksmen will render a patriotic duty to make clay pigeons of starlings.

Our native sparrow family here in the United States embraces many birds including the song sparrow, white-crowned sparrow, field sparrow, etc., all of which are here in my bird haven, but unfortunately they resemble the female English sparrow. The best way, therefore, to check the English sparrow is to destroy their nests; they are easily identified because they use so many feathers in building it.

In the northeast corner of the yard here is a large maple tree with a dead top which has been chiseled out by woodpeckers. The hole is so large in diameter that I can see into it quite easily. From, I do not know where, a pair of flickers or yellow hammers came eight weeks ago. They established their nest and laid eggs.

I travel on the road for the W. M. Welch Scientific Company, Chicago, Illinois; I try to sell chemistry, physics, biology, general science, mathematics apparatus, and chemicals, also laboratory furniture, and scientific supplies. My territory is in Illinois and Kentucky.

Recently I was gone into my Kentucky territory for three weeks. Immediately upon my arrival at the farm I checked to see how my flickers or yellow hammers were progressing, and, quite naturally, I was not at all surprised to learn that a pair of English starlings had moved into the nest. I began to search for the woodpecker eggs.

I found one which had a hole pecked into it; then it was dropped on the ground at the base of the tree. Then I took a long ladder on which I climbed to the nest to discover that the starlings had built their nest over the remaining flicker woodpecker eggs. Unless you are a lover of our native birds, it is impossible for you to realize how bad I felt to see this happen, especially, when I am so eager to have our native woodpeckers in my bird haven.

Last September 6, 1959, I celebrated my seventieth (70) birthday anniversary. From boyhood I have loved our native birds, and have looked forward to the time when I could establish a bird haven for them. I have always made trips into the woods to study birds. Sixty years ago on those journeys I saw and observed hundreds of our beautiful native woodpeckers. I have not seen one on those trips for at least five years, so, quite naturally, I wonder from where those came, who have come to my bird haven where they know they are protected.

God's Law of Nature has established a bird balance applicable to their particular country by having certain kinds of life feed upon others, thus, a hungry cat, hawk, or owl will catch one of our beautiful native birds like the red bird or cardinal, the yellow warbler, goldfinch, etc., but never the English starling, nor English sparrow.

H. C. Tate Wins Journalistic Service Award

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Illinois Press Assn. Friday night named H. Clay Tate, editor of the Bloomington Daily Pantagraph, Illinois editor of the year for 1959 for outstanding journalistic achievement the last 10 years.

John Homes, publisher of the Villa Grove News and chairman of the awards committee, presented Tate with a silver on ebony plaque at a banquet during the association's annual spring convention.

Tate was selected from a field of 46 daily and weekly newspaper editors who were nominated for the coveted award. The heads of the journalism schools of the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University and Bradley University served as judges.

The award usually is given for journalistic achievement during the calendar year, but Tate was selected on the basis of many years of distinguished service to his community and the profession.

In selecting Tate, the judges took note of these accomplishments:

A community betterment program to improve and develop small towns in the Pantagraph's area; a vigorous editorial campaign that resulted in Bloomington adopting a council-manager form of government over strenuous opposition; campaigns for better housing which led to the construction of low-cost housing units in Bloomington; editorial support of better schools which enabled his city to forge ahead with school improvements.

Tate's editorials, the judges said, also were successful in paving the way for better rural roads, county zoning, off-street parking, the establishment of unit school districts, and conservation and improvement of the water supply.

Tate sent daily news releases to his paper last year during a 45-day world tour, giving his observations and opinions of conditions prevailing in the countries he visited. On returning to Bloomington, Tate made more than 50 public appearances in connection with his tour.

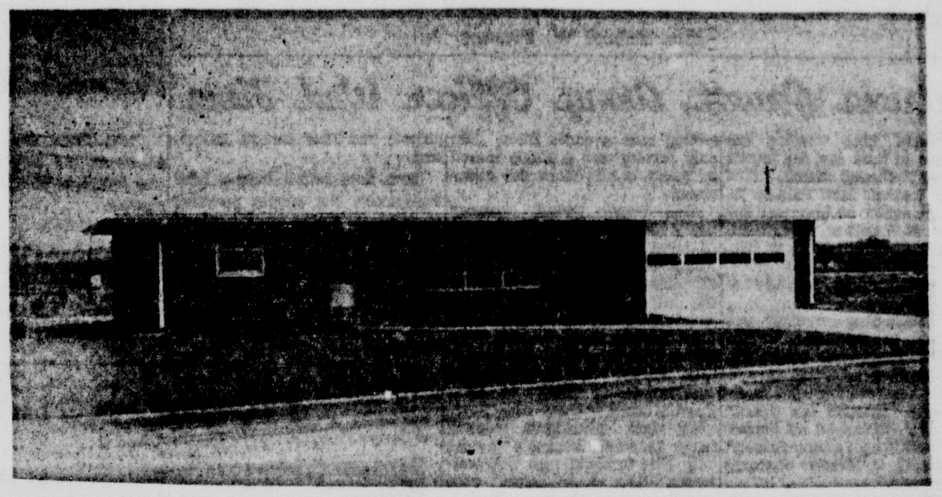
NEW HOME SERIES

NO. 20



Simplicity of design, comfort and living pleasure are the important factors incorporated in the attractive new home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer O. Jackson, daughters Susan and Karen at No. 3 Westgate Circle, Westgate Addition.

Of rectangular design with garage integrated, the exterior of Red Brick is given distinction by a large panorama window on the front, and a wide roof overhang sheltering the terrace and front door.

A winding walk creates an inviting approach to the entry, just inside the front door, there is a convenient coat closet. The living room at the right of the entrance foyer features walls of Western Ponderosa Pine paneling, effective contrast is provided by an Ivory ceiling, and wall-to-wall carpeting in a shade of Nut-Brown Tweed. Champagne-Beige draperies, that pull for privacy, frame the large window. A collection of Milk-Glass accessories add charm to the decor.

The open planning of the living room, dining room and kitchen, creates an air of spaciousness. The dining room adjacent to the kitchen is actually an extension of the living room area. Here, the color theme is set by using a Provincial Print wallpaper of Moss Green and White for the end wall with matching fabrics for the curtains. The other walls are painted Castile Ivory. A peninsula - type countertop area, with kneehole space below accommodating pull-up stools, separates the kitchen from the dining room, and provides an ideal spot for informal meals.

A hall leading from the dining room adjoins the entrance hall. The bath opening off of this side hall, includes a full tub with combination shower screened by a translucent glass panel, a lavatory-vanitory surfaced with Ivory Formica sprinkled with Gold, a mirrored medicine chest flanked by fluorescent lights, a window with southern exposure, and a built-in towel closet. The lower half of the walls are Mocha Tile, accented by a frieze of Chocolate-Brown Tile, the upper walls and ceiling are painted Ivory. Mocha Tan fixtures and a Terrazo patterned floor in a Sand tone achieve a harmonious effect. Directly opposite the bath, a closet situated in the hall solves the linen storage problem for the bedrooms.

The bedrooms open from the entrance hall, each have two exposures. Double closets with full heighth bi-folding doors provide ample storage. Pine paneling, timeless in its appeal, has been used for the walls of the halls and bedrooms, creating an effect of continuity, Ivory ceilings offer contrast. Documentary Print draperies of Azure Blue and White are featured in Susan and Karen's bedroom. The Master bedroom also features Print draperies of Brown, Mustard and Chartreuse, and a luxury extra in its attractive lavatory, where the color scheme relies on simplicity, Ebony Tile walls for the lower section, accented by the upper half and ceiling painted Ivory. A sand tone is used for the Vinyl floor. Highly polished oak floors are used for the halls and bedrooms. A walk-in Cedar lined closet in the entrance hall adds to storage spaciousness.

This well-planned home has convenience and charm, as well as solid building value.

CHANGE IN TECHNIQUE

LONDON (AP) — Drama critics in England in 1660 spoke their criticisms aloud during the performance of a play. After the play was over, they remained to speak aloud their verdicts if a play would be a success or failure.

Ladies often would remain in their boxes after a performance to hear the critics' verdict.

Parents School At I. S. D.

Thirty-five healthy, alert, intelligent little youngsters, with their mothers and fathers, attended the 16th Annual Parents School for PreSchool Deaf Children at I.S.D. June 5 to June 11. Several are pictured above playing on the jungle gym.

These little youngsters are like any other children with one exception—they are deaf. They look with wonder upon a hearing world. Crowding in upon these children's growing curiosity are many questions. "What's that for? Who is he? Where are we going? What will happen to me? Why do they do that? Why can't I do this? Why? Why? Why? But these children cannot ask these questions for they have no words. Never having heard they do not know such things as words exist. Their parents want to help them to know "Why," answer their questions, and provide experiences that will help them to adjust to a hearing world.

The Annual School for Parents of PreSchool Children is a co-operative institute planned and operated by: The Department of Public Welfare, Otto L. Bettag, M.D., director; The Office of Public Instruction, George T. Wilkins, superintendent; and the Division of Services for Crippled Children, University of Illinois, Edward F. Lis, M.D., director.

This school is a part of the "Illinois Plan" for special education and provides full information about the education possible for each child and his parent. It endeavors to help parents answer the question, "How can we help our child overcome this handicap?"

The seven-day program at the Parents Institute provided the parents an opportunity to talk with and have their children seen by prominent specialists, including otologists, audiologists, pediatricians, child development experts, a nursery school authority, trained teachers of the deaf, psychologists, and medical social workers.

COMMAND DECISION

by Janet Henry

For weeks we've been discussing
What the extra room should be;
Some office space for Daddy?
A sewing room for me?

The girls would like a playroom,
The boys prefer a den.
Then suddenly, good gracious
It's a nursery again!

Red Sox Make Jurges Leave Of Absence Permanent

Pender Beats Robinson On Split Decision

Winner Takes Command In Middle Rounds To Ward Off Sugar Ray

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Pender proved himself the champion of 40-year-old Sugar Ray Robinson Friday night by successfully defending his limited version of the world middleweight title on a split 15-round decision.

Shaking off the best punches that Robinson could throw in the early stages of the bout, Pender took command in the middle rounds and stood off a frantic desperation finish by the bedraggled Sugar Man.

Both judges had Pender, a 29-year-old Brookline, Mass., favorite, out front by a comfortable margin. Referee Jim McCarron cast a surprising 146-144 ballot for Robinson. Judge Jim Carrig had it 149-138 for Pender and Judge Johnny Savko 147-142 for the local boy. The AP card was 144-141 in favor of Pender.

When Pender dethroned Sugar Ray Jan. 22 in the same Boston Garden ring on a highly disputed split decision, there were many dissenting shouts from ringside. This time the vote for Pender was extremely popular.

Robinson's slip surely was showing. Time after time he tried to pull the trigger on his right hand lead but it usually missed fire and sputtered harmlessly over Pender's head.

In the fifth round, Robinson opened with a long right to the side of the head that shook Pender. But he couldn't follow up soon enough and let his man get away.

From the sixth round on, Pender's tactics of "push, pull and shove" paid off. He would beat Robinson more often than not with a left hook. Then he would move in close and beat a tattoo on Robinson's unprotected side with his free right hand. Time after time Referee McCarron had to warn both for rabbit punching. Robinson drew warnings to "keep them up" in the sixth round.

The victory left Pender the 160-pound champ in Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Gene Fullmer is recognized by the National Boxing Assn. which stripped Robinson of his crown May 4, 1959, long before he lost the two-state version to Pender. Pender came in exactly at the class limit of 160 pounds. Robinson was a pound and a half lighter at 158½ pounds.

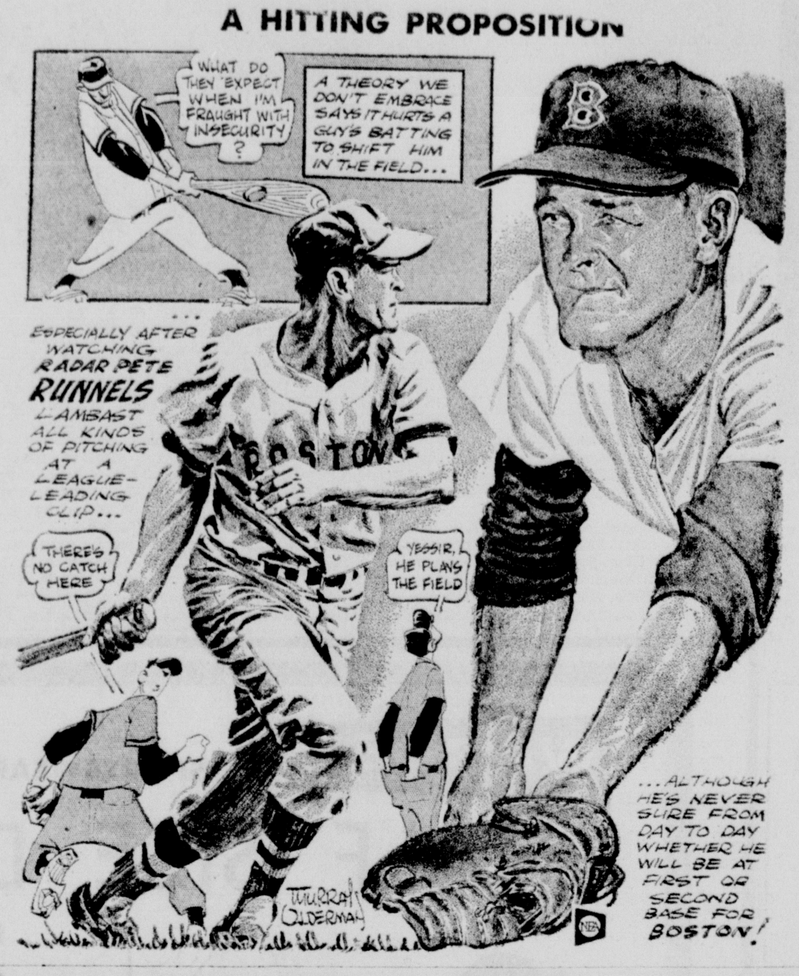
ORIOLES RECALL HOEFT

BALTIMORE (AP)— The Baltimore Orioles Friday recalled pitcher Billy Hoeft from the Miami Marlins of the International League.

The veteran left-hander, a 20-game winner for Detroit in 1956, had a 4-5 record with Miami this season. Manager Paul Richards asked that he be brought back to Baltimore in an attempt to solve the Orioles' bullpen problem, a factor in the club's four straight losses this week.



MIGHTY CASEY—Ready to resume managing the New York Yankees, Casey Stengel, backed by the missus, flexed his muscles when asked how he felt. The veteran was hospitalized for 10 days and then confined to his hotel suite by a virus infection in his kidneys.

JOHANSSON SKIPS ROADWORK

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)— Ingemar Johansson skipped road work again Friday. It was the third successive morning the heavyweight champion decided against taking his running exercise.

Johansson is favoring a strained back muscle. It was a recurrence of an ailment he suffered last year about the same stage of his training for his first fight with Floyd Patterson. The two are scheduled to meet in a return title bout at the Polo Grounds June 20.

RESUMES SPARRING

The champion was re-examined by Dr. Herbert Salzberg, who reported Johansson's back ailment, which caused the layoff from heavy work, was much improved.

Ingemar went three rounds with Swedish light heavyweight Linnard Risberg, and specialized in combinations and rights to the midsection. Later he had prolonged sessions with the light and heavy bags.

WILLIAMS IS WILLING

BOSTON (AP)—"I owe him a great deal," Red Sox slugger Ted Williams says of team president Tom Yawkey. "He has been good to me ever since I was a kid. I willingly will attempt to do anything he wants me to do. If he wants me to play as long as I can, I want to make the effort.

"If he doesn't, I certainly don't want to force the issue. I have no intention of overstaying my welcome insofar as Mr. Yawkey is concerned."

Reports are that Yawkey will find a baseball job for Williams when the outfielder ends his playing career.

DYKES IS CONFUSED

DETROIT (AP) — Manager Jimmie Dykes of the Detroit Tigers can't understand why left field in Yankee Stadium is such a problem. "I've never heard any complaints until the 1958 World Series when Norm Siebern had a bad bad day," says Dyks. "I saw Wes Covington of Milwaukee play left field there in the 1957 World Series and he looked all right.

"If Covington can play it, anybody can play it.

West Virginia's football team will play "away games" against Virginia Tech, Illinois, Pittsburgh, Penn State and Oregon next fall.

New Pastor

The Rev. Lyle E. Sucher, recently ordained, began service as pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church at Bluffs on June 1. He was ordained on May 18 at St. Louis as minister of the Illinois Synod of the United Lutheran Church of America.

He is a 1957 graduate of Carthage College with a degree in religion. On May 6 he was graduated from Chicago Lutheran Seminary at Maywood, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Sucher were married in the American Lutheran Church at Fort Collins, Colo., last June. She is the former Miss Alwn Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis C. Hicks of Fort Collins.

They met at Mesa Verde National Park where he was working in a National Council of Churches project and she in a gift shop. They visited her parents before taking up residence in Bluffs.

Bluffs Notes

Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin and family moved from the Schuessler property in the east part of Bluffs to the Boes house in the north part of town.

Mrs. Delpha Carpenter is being cared for in a nursing home in Greenfield, but will be brought to Winchester as soon as there is a vacancy.

DELMORE DIES

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Victor (Vic) Delmore, 43, former National League umpire and a veteran of two decades in baseball as player, manager and arbiter, died Friday in Hahnemann Hospital after an illness of less than a week.

YANKS SIGN HEINTZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Heintz, a right handed high school pitcher, was signed Friday by the New York Yankees for what was described as a sizeable bonus.

Heintz, 18, a 170-pounder who stands 6 feet 1, lives in St. Libory, Ill., and was the star pitcher for the Cathedral High team in Belleville, Ill. The Yankees said he would be optioned to Fargo, N.D., in the Class C Northern League.

A record football crowd of 34,800 at Mountaineer Field, Morgantown, W. Va., saw the 1956 West Virginia-Pitt game.

During the second week of May, San Francisco pitchers had a 67-inning stretch in which they allowed only five runs. Four games were shutouts.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Have No Immediate Successor In Mind

BOSTON (AP) — Billy Jurges Friday was fired as manager of the Boston Red Sox.

The Red Sox made the announcement in a prepared release only minutes before Friday night's Boston-Chicago game.

Jurges was given a leave of absence as the Red Sox manager only two days ago. At that time, the Red Sox said he was ordered to take a rest by doctors.

Jurges, now at his home in Arlington, Va., was reported under severe strain due to the slump that had sent his Red Sox to the bottom of the American League.

Veteran Coach Del Baker was named at that time as interim manager. The Red Sox announcement Friday night said Baker will continue in that capacity.

No mention was made of a permanent successor to Jurges.

Jurges, a one-time National League great at shortstop, took over the Red Sox field generalship from Mike Higgins in mid-season last year.

He took a last-place team and brought them to a fifth-place finish.

The Red Sox started this season in good shape, rising to second place early in the season. Then they went into a tailspin—including a 10-game losing streak—and there were rumors Jurges might be fired.

He was given no less than three votes of confidence by owner Tom Yawkey and General Manager Bucky Harris.

When he was ordered to take a rest, the Red Sox management said he would return as soon as possible.

The Red Sox statement said in part:

"It . . . has been decided by Mr. Yawkey and Mr. Harris that Jurges might desire to take as much rest as he thinks necessary and perhaps later become affiliated with some other team in baseball which he could not do if he were still under contract to the Red Sox.

"Therefore, he is being given his unconditional release and his salary will be paid him in full for the 1960 season."

XXIV

The important point was that Duke was gone from here but planned to return. Nothing to do now but wait for Duke, and he looked into the gunny-sack and found food—dry roast meat and drier bread, bacon, canned goods. He ate some of the bread and meat. He got out his jacknife and opened a can of tomatoes and drank the juice and fished out the pulp with his knife point and ate it. He felt tremendously renewed.

Restless, he began prowling the cave. On the walls were scratchings he and Duke had made in imitation of cave drawings they had seen in books. He went deep into the cave, far back toward its end, and found where a fire had burned long ago and guessed it had been one he and Duke had kindled. He looked down at the charred stubs of wood that had been patiently toted from the gulch, and he bent closer, drawn by something there in the debris that was no part of boyhood memory.

He lifted the object and held it, a partially-consumed carpetbag. He knew it for what it was, and his pulse raced and his mouth went dry. He fumbled at the clasp. Inside he found a great wad of newspapers, scorched and half burned. He tore this wad apart and held one of the newspapers close to his eyes and made out the masthead. The Jupiter City Journal. He couldn't read the date in this light, but he didn't need to. He knew. The meaning of his discovery was suddenly as clear to him as a landscape made sharp by a lightning flash on a stormy night.

He remembered Duke in Jupiter City and his pleading with Duke to hit the home trail, as he had followed Duke from one saloon and gambling hall to another. He remembered how finally Duke had handed him the carpetbag and told him to take it along home, promising he'd hit the trail himself shortly. And at that very time Duke had known what the carpetbag held, and known, too, what he must do to keep it from being delivered.

He turned then, wrenched from chaotic thinking by a warning sound. He turned, hearing shale rattle as someone came up the slope to the cave's mouth. That was Duke silhouetted there in the opening—no mistaking his build—and he faced toward Duke and drew his gun at the same time and stood waiting.

Then he saw the second silhouette, the one behind Duke's; and he drew in a sharp breath, for Dorcas was here, coming into the cave on Duke's heels.

He hadn't counted on Dorcas, yet her presence was not surprising when he remembered the note Duke had left. Duke, sneaking past Hatchet's camp afoot in the hours beyond midnight, must have drifted on down the road as he'd planned, drifted into the dawn and a meeting with Dorcas, riding up from the Brewster place. Probably they'd both been near him before he'd quit the road and taken to the back country. And now they were here.

He said in a level voice, "Stop where you are, Duke. You, too, Dorcas. Don't try for your gun, Duke!"

Duke jerked in astonishment. "All right, Ry," he said. "Dorcas told me you were on my trail."

"Unlatch your gun-belt, Duke. That's right—slow and easy. Let it drop. Now hook your toe under it and kick it this way. Fine."

"Get on with it," Duke said sullenly. "You've hunted me and you've found me."

He had expected to find Duke's weak, handsome face five years older. What he hadn't expected was to find lines of suffering there. Duke looked like a man who had been through some long sickness, and the disarming thing was that even though anger still beat in him, he felt a stab of pity for Duke. He thought of that burned carpetbag, and he asked stonily, "Do you remember the court room, Duke?"

"Yes, and the words you said to me as they led you out. About the man with the mask being my build. You'd guessed then, hadn't you, Ry?"

"Not for certain. The thing I kept remembering was that you didn't protest. Then one by one the pieces began to fall into place. The gambling you must have done on nights when you gave me the slip. Your giving me the carpetbag, finally, but saying you wanted to stay a couple days more. What you really did was follow me and get the carpetbag and bring it here and try to burn it. But I didn't find out that last fact till just now."

"But meantime you'd guessed."

"I used to lie awake in the prison nights and even worked out the words I'd say—words calculated to draw the truth out of you and then make you mad enough to fight."

* * *

The sullen tone went out of Duke's voice, and in its place came the first hope, the first eagerness. "What changed your mind?"

"Everything that had been between us," Buckner said. "All the good memories weighed against the one bad one. Does that make sense?"

Softly: "I reckon, Ry."

"Then the only thing that mattered was not whether you'd double-crossed me, but why? Why would you have done such a thing to me, of all people? That's what put me on your trail, Duke. Everybody jumped to the notion that I was out howling for vengeance, while all I wanted was to ask that question. But maybe I got the answer yesterday. Maybe you put me in prison to get Dorcas."

"On my word, Ry, it wasn't that!"

DRAMATIST CRITICIZES

NEW YORK (AP)—Oscar Wilde, the Irish dramatist, once said that the theatrical producers on Broadway "know the price of everything and the value of nothing."

Yet Wilde's plays such as "Lady Windermere's Fan," "A Woman Of No Importance," and "The Importance of Being Ernest" have several times been given hit productions by Broadway managers.

RACING COINCIDENCE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Celtic Ash, third in the Preakness Trial, is owned by the same man who owned Cavan, 1958 Belmont winner, and came up to his 3-year-old career the same way as Cavan—as a maiden. Both horses, imported from the British Isles, are owned by Joseph E. O'Connell of Boston.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS SMALLEST HEARING AID

Springfield, Ill. — (Special) — A remarkable midget hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small aid has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a most unusual idea and design in a product for the hard of hearing.

It is especially made for those people who can hear but not understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television, and radio at his ear rather than at a transmitter located in the wearer's clothing.

Due to the use of 4 transistors, the user cost is exiremely low and the instrument weighs approximately ¼-ounce. It is about the size of a sewing thimble.

Call George H. Siebert at the Dunlap Hotel, Jacksonville, Hearing Clinic on Wednesday, June 15, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., or write to 407 S. Fifth St., Springfield. You will receive full information without any obligation whatever.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

Enjoying your job is said to be a big step toward doing a good job and Robert Stack, of ABS-TV's "The Untouchables," would seem to be a shining example of this philosophy, for he not only enjoys working on the show, but is doing such a good job of it that he's been nominated for an Emmy as best actor.

The part Stack likes best about the show is the era it's set in, "The Roaring 20's." Says Stack, "I get a big kick out of the period cars we use in the show . . . they have a feeling of luxury we don't think about today. Remember the flower vases?" He likes the wardrobes, too, especially the multi-buttoned 20's-style vest. "And those stub-pointed big barreled pens . . . they were worthless under water, but when I hold one I know I've got a pen in my hand," says Bob.

But though he loves the era, he's just as glad he wasn't born 30 years earlier. Says Bob, "I hope to see advances they never dreamed of then." Many advances have already been made, especially in TV. And with them, TV sets have become more complex. That's why you should be sure that your TV repair is done by a qualified TV technician who really knows his job. To be sure of expert service by trained servicemen, call us. SHUMAKER TV AND APPLIANCES, 222 E. State St. Phone 5-6595.

LAINE TO BROADWAY

The result: He's making his debut on Broadway in a musical called "Mad Avenue."

"There has to be a new challenge somewhere along the line," he says. "I don't think anyone who enjoys living can be satisfied with standing still."

Laine is so hopeful the Broadway show will be a success that he reluctlantly sold his Beverly Hills home.

Of the show he says:

"I guess I'm going through the throes of what everyone goes through who does one of these things. If it comes off the way it reads and the new songs sound the way they ought to sound, then it ought to be a bomb."

PUBLICIZE QUALITY, HE SAYS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Too many American movie producers publicize the millions spent on a film instead of the film's quality.

Producer Jerry Wald says this and calls neither a big budget nor a big star any guarantee of success.

And Wald, producer of such films as "Peyton Place" and "The Long, Hot Summer," uses "Room at the Top" to prove his point.

He says it is a big box office success without the aid of top stars and made for a mere fraction of what many "super" flops cost.

It is the untried and untested that pay off, according to Wald. "Frankly, I would prefer to refrain from thinking how much a film is going to cost and concentrate on what it has to say."

FONDA TO STAR

NEW YORK (AP)—"Critic's Choice," a comedy by Ira Levin scheduled for Broadway premiere next December, will probably have Henry Fonda playing the starring role of the critic.

The story concerns a drama critic whose wife writes a new play.
